CERTIFICATION OF CREDITOR IN SUPPORT OF ITS SECURED AND PRIORITY CLAIMS LISTED IN CREDITOR'S PROOF OF CLAIM

I, Frank Reed, being of full age, certify and state the following:

1. In 2008 GMAC Mortgage, ResCap, et al and / or their agents, (the Debtor), violated New Jersey State foreclosure law in a grossly negligent manner (represented by, but not limited to: Exhibit A - Order and Judicial Decision dismissing the Debtor's foreclosure for violation of state law).
2. The Debtor's gross negligence was the direct and proximate cause of the Debtor's unjust retention of a mortgage lien on the property commonly known as 817 Matlack Drive Moorestown, Burlington County, NJ 08057, (the Property), (represented by, but not limited to: Exhibits B and C - indicating that but for the Debtor's gross negligence, the Debtor would have been paid off, which would have resulted in the extinguishment of its mortgage lien).

3. The Debtor's actions were the direct and proximate cause of an additional approximately $2,953,000 in damages. (represented by, but not limited to: Exhibits D, E, F, G, H, I and J - complaint, amended complaint and various financial proofs).
4. The Debtor's actions were perpetrated against and to the detriment of myself, Frank Reed, (the Creditor).
5. Subsequently, as the owner and mortgagor of the property, the Creditor commenced civil action against the Debtor (ref: Exhibit D - complaint).
6. Pursuant to that litigation, the Creditor's claim was ruled to be valid under New Jersey Law, (see: Exhibits K, L and E - Debtor's denied motion to dismiss for failure to state a proper claim and the Creditor's brief and the Creditor's Amended complaint approved by the Court with the Creditor's brief in support of its Amended Complaint).
7. Contemporaneous to the Creditor's litigation, the Debtor was subject to a joint investigation and enforcement action of and by the Federal Reserve and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. (see: Exhibit M - Interagency Review of Foreclosure Policies and Practices)
8. As a result of these actions by the Federal Reserve and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the Debtor entered into a consent order (see: Exhibit N and O), in which it admitted to and agreed to, several relevant things:

- a) that the Debtor conducted the illegal behavior which was the very subject of the Creditor's litigation with them,
 - b) that the Debtor's behavior can cause individuals such as the Creditor financial harm, and
 - c) that the Debtor agreed to make fully whole all those who have been financially harmed by their acts.
9. It is the Debtor's admissions and assumption of liability in conjunction with the facts, including the timing of the Debtor's grossly negligent acts, which perfect the Creditor's equitable secured interest vis-à-vis the constructive trust, as the Debtor's acts and admissions substantially predate the Debtor's bankruptcy petition by years and do not conflict with the equities of federal bankruptcy law, as represented by, but not limited to, In re Howard's Appliance Corp., 874 F.2d 88, 93 (2d Cir. 1989).
10. Now, since real property has long been recognized as containing such unique attributes and characteristics rendering it beyond the realm of mere legal damage valuations, and it is clearly traceable and discrete, a constructive trust should be recognized, pursuant to bankruptcy and common law, as existing over both the mortgage instrument and the real property on which the mortgage instrument exists, again, the Property.
11. Recognizing this trust would appropriately declare the Creditor's position as a secured creditor, as the beneficiary of the constructive trust, properly estopping the Debtor from unjustly remaining as, and therefore being enriched by, its position as lien holder on the property.

12. To do otherwise would result in the Debtor being unjustly enriched at the Creditor's expense despite the Debtor's grossly negligent acts.

13. In addition to Debtor being stripped of their lien position vis-à-vis the imposition of the Constructive Trust, the financial damages claims sought by the Creditor should be placed in priority pursuant to, but not limited to the authority of the provisions of 11 U.S.C. §507 (a)(3), as the Debtor has agreed to pay them under the consent decree that they have entered into with the Federal Reserve and the Federal Deposit Insurance Company, and which were also found, res judicata, to be valid claims by the Court in the Creditor's private civil action.

I certify the foregoing statements made by me are true based upon my present information and belief and realize if any are willfully false I am subject to punishment.

HOGAN, P.J. Ch.

Plaintiff GMAC Mortgage, LLC brings this present Motion for Summary Judgment to Strike Defendant's Answer, Enter Default, and transfer the matter to the Foreclosure Unit to proceed as an uncontested matter. Defendant Frank J. Reed, III has filed a Cross-motion for Summary Judgment before the Court to dismiss the Complaint for failure to provide a proper notice of intent ("NOI") as required under the New Jersey Fair Foreclosure Act ("FFA"). The court has considered those papers submitted. Proof of service has been furnished. The Court now holds, for the following reasons, Plaintiff's motion is hereby DENIED and Defendant's cross-motion is hereby GRANTED. Plaintiff's Foreclosure Complaint is dismissed without prejudice.

FACTS

On May 31, 2006, Defendant Frank J. Reed, III executed a Note in favor of MERS, as nominee for Metrocities Mortgage, LLC for the amount of $1,000,000.00. To secure that obligation, Defendant executed a Mortgage in the same amount for real property located at 817 Matlack Drive, Moorestown, New Jersey. The Mortgage was recorded in the Burlington County Clerk's Office on Sept. 25, 2006. The Mortgage was subsequently assigned to Plaintiff GMAC Mortgage, LLC, who is alleged to be the current holder of both the Note and Mortgage. Defendant subsequently defaulted under the terms of the Note by failing and neglecting to make payments that were due on Feb. 1, 2008 and all payments due thereafter. As such, Plaintiff filed a Foreclosure Complaint on May 19, 2008.

Defendant asserts that Plaintiff failed to send a written Notice of Intent to Foreclose pursuant to the FAA at least thirty (30) days prior to the filing of the Foreclosure Complaint.

Plaintiff asserts that it has not been able to locate a copy of the NOI that was sent to Defendant or the certified mailing receipt for the same. Plaintiff further asserts that the Answer filed by Defendant is merely a delay tactic and presents no material issue of fact that contests Plaintiff's right to foreclose.

Accordingly, Plaintiff seeks for this Court to enter an Order striking the Answer, entering default and transferring the case back to the Foreclosure Unit to proceed as an uncontested matter. Defendant seeks to dismiss the Foreclosure Complaint.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Summary Judgment Standard

Summary judgment must be granted if "the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law." R. 4:46-2(c). "A party may defeat a motion for summary judgment by demonstrating that the evidential materials relied upon by the moving party, considered in light of the applicable burden of proof, raise sufficient credibility issues to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issues in favor of the non-moving party." D'Amato v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 114, 701 A.2d 970 (App. Div. 1997) (quoting Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 523, 666 A.2d 146 (1995)).

The trial court's "function is not . . . to weigh the evidence and determine the truth . . . but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 540, 666 A.2d 146 (quoting Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 249, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 2511, 91 L. Ed. 2d 202, 212 (1986)). The trial judge must consider "whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Id. When the facts present "a single, unavoidable resolution" and the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law," then a trial court should grant summary judgment. Id.

Here, the parties' submissions do not contest the relevant material facts. Therefore, no genuine questions of material fact are presented in this case, such that summary judgment is appropriate in this matter.

Notice of Intent to Foreclose

The FFA requires a residential mortgage lender to serve a written notice of intention to file foreclosure proceedings, by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, at least thirty (30) days prior to commencing suit. N.J.S.A. 2A:50-56(a)-(b).

This duty of the lender "to serve notice of intention to foreclose is independent of any other duty to give notice under the common law, principles of equity, state or federal statute, or rule of court and of any other right or remedy the debtor may have as a result of the failure to give such notice." N.J.S.A. 2A:50-56(e). Compliance with this rule must be set forth in the pleadings of a Foreclosure Complaint. N.J.S.A. 2A:50-56(f).

Plaintiff states that, even if this Court determines that Defendant was not properly served with a NOI in accordance with the FFA, dismissal or denial of summary judgment is not the appropriate remedy. Citing GE Capital Mortgage Servs., Inc. v. Weisman, 339 N.J. Super. 590 (Ch.Div. 2000), Plaintiff alleges that the appropriate remedy for failure to provide a proper NOI is for the foreclosure to be stayed for thirty (30) days, while the lender or its counsel sends out a letter that conforms with N.J.S.A. 2A:50-56, and that this solution provides a defendant with all the protections he or she would have had if the notice was properly sent out in the first instance. In Weisman, the foreclosing mortgagee was unable to locate its records demonstrating service of the NOI on the debtor. 339 N.J. Super. at 592. The Chancery Division found that, because total non-compliance with the FFA or bad faith were not involved, dismissal of the foreclosure action was not the appropriate remedy. Rather, that court held that the appropriate remedy in light of mortgagee's inability to demonstrate its compliance with FFA was order directing mortgagee to forward a new NOI within ten (10) days, with mortgagors entitled to thirty (30) days from the mailing of a NOI during which they could reinstate the mortgage without liability for costs and attorney fees. Id. at 595.

However, this Court notes that Plaintiff fails to cite current law, which has overturned Weisman. In EMC Mortgage Corp. v. Chaudhri, 400 N.J. Super. 126 (App.Div. 2008), the Appellate Division disapproved of the remedy employed in Weisman and held that a violation of the FFA's pre-suit notice requirement cannot be cured by proper mailing during pendency of suit, as an alternative to dismissal of action without prejudice. Id. at 587.

The Court also notes that a dismissal of a foreclosure action without prejudice has no effect on the underlying contractual obligations of the parties and does not bar reinstitution of the same claims in a later action. R. 4:37-2(a).

The Court, having considered the Plaintiff's Motion for Summary Judgment, the Defendant's Cross-Motion for Summary Judgment, and the Plaintiff's Opposition to Cross-Motion, now finds that Plaintiff failed to comply with the notice requirements of N.J.S.A. 2A:50-56 and has neglected to state such compliance in its Complaint as required under N.J.S.A. 2A:50-56(f). Accordingly, Plaintiff's Motion for Summary Judgment is hereby DENIED and Defendant's Cross-motion for Summary Judgment is GRANTED. Plaintiff's Foreclosure Complaint is dismissed without prejudice.

Re: Declination of Cash out Refinance on 817 Matlack Drive Moorestown, NJ 08057

Dear Mr. Curley:

During the spring of 2008 your office was processing a cash-out refinance on my primary residence located at 817 Matlack Drive Moorestown, NJ 08057.

An appraisal for this loan was done for this transaction by your bank on the house and the value was established at $2,040,000. However, the loan in question was declined in the first week of June.

It is my recollection that the reason for this loan declination was that our primary residence had just gone into foreclosure.

I am writing you now as I cannot find a copy of any written correspondence from your bank citing the reason for the loan's declination although I do remember it being given to me verbally.

Can you now please provide to me a written correspondence confirming my recollection as to the reason for the loan's declination?

I thank you for your time and assistance in this matter.

Sincerely,

Frank Reed

This letter is to verify that back in March of 2008 I Thomas J Tartamosa was a Loan Officer for Allied Mortgage Group of Cherry Hill NJ 08003 and had worked on situating financing for Mr. Frank Reed. Mr. Reed was able to qualify for a number of different loan programs at that time. At the time that Mr. Reed had contacted me he had his home in Moorestown NJ for sale and under a sales contract. Mr. Reed was exploring his options incase he was unable to complete that sale. These options that I presented to Mr. Reed had become null and void when his property at 817 Matlack Dr. Moorestown NJ 08057 was placed into foreclosure.

If you have any questions on this matter please feel free to contact me at 856-296-0392.

14. Defendant GMAC Mortgage LLC failed to exercise the required standard of care, and negligently and/or recklessly filed a Complaint for Foreclosure and recorded a Lis Pendens against the Property and Plaintiffs without first discharging its statutory duty to provide a “notice of intention” as required by the Fair Foreclosure Act.

15. At the time Defendant GMAC Mortgage LLC improperly and negligently filed its Complaint for Foreclosure and Lis Pendens, Plaintiffs were in the process of consummating financial transactions which, as a proximate result of Defendant’s negligent and/or reckless conduct, were not consummated and which, but for Defendant’s negligent and/or reckless conduct, would have been consummated.

16. At all relevant times herein, Defendant GMAC Mortgage LLC knew or should have known that a foreclosure filing and Lis Pendens recording would severely compromise Plaintiffs’ financial dealings, including but not limited to Plaintiffs’ ability to obtain credit in the future.

17. As a direct and proximate result of said Defendant's negligent and/or reckless conduct, Plaintiffs suffered damages and continue to suffer damages.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs demand judgment against Defendants for such sum of money as would reasonably and properly compensate Plaintiffs in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey, attorney's fees, costs, interest, and any other relief as the court may deem proper.

FIFTH COUNT

1. The prior Counts are referred to herein and made a part of this Count, but for the sake of brevity are not repeated in their entirety.

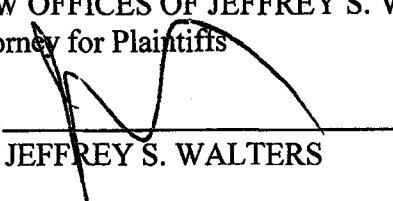

2. But for the negligent and reckless conduct of Defendants in prematurely filing a Complaint for Foreclosure and recording a Lis Pendens, Plaintiffs would have consummated a refinance transaction with another lender which would have paid off Defendant's mortgage.

3. Defendants, by its/their negligent and reckless actions in prematurely filing a Complaint for Foreclosure and recording of a Lis Pendens, made it impossible for Plaintiffs to procure the funds to pay off Defendant's mortgage, and furthermore, destroyed Plaintiffs' credit and future ability to reinstate or pay off the mortgage loan as is permitted by the Fair Foreclosure Act.

4. As a result of Defendants' actions in negligently and recklessly destroying Plaintiffs' credit and rendering Plaintiffs without the ability to take advantage of Plaintiffs' statutory rights, Defendant GMAC Mortgage LLC, its successor-in-interest Defendant Residential Funding Corp. and any other successor-in-interest should be estopped from instituting another foreclosure action against Plaintiffs and the Property.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs demand judgment against Defendants estopping them from instituting another foreclosure action against Plaintiffs and the Property, and for such sum of money as would reasonably and properly compensate Plaintiffs in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey, attorney's fees, costs, interest, and any other relief as the court may deem proper.

Docket No: L-1526-10

AMENDED COMPLAINT

Plaintiff, whose post office address is 817 Matlack Drive, Moorestown, New Jersey 08057, by way of Amended Complaint against the Defendants says:

FIRST COUNT THROUGH FIFTH COUNT

1. All paragraphs of the First Count through the Fifth Count of the Initial Complaint are repeated herein and made the First Count through Fifth Count of this Amended Complaint, but for the sake of brevity, same is not repeated in their entirety.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff demands judgment against Defendants for such sum of money as would reasonably and properly compensate Plaintiff in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey, attorney's fees, costs, interest, and any other relief as the court may deem proper, and as more fully set forth in the Initial Complaint.

SIXTH COUNT

2. The prior Counts are referred to herein and made a part of this Count, but for the sake of brevity are not repeated in their entirety.

3. Pursuant to the Fair Foreclosure Act, NJSA 2A:50-53 et seq., Defendant was obliged to inform Plaintiff, in a properly prepared and served “Notice of Intention to Foreclose” as defined in that Act, that Plaintiff had the right to cure any mortgage default at any time prior to the entry of a final foreclosure judgment.

4. Defendant failed to provide Plaintiff with the “Notice of Intention to Foreclose” required by the Fair Foreclosure Act prior to filing its Complaint for Foreclosure on or about May 19, 2008.

5. Instead, Defendant filed a Complaint for Foreclosure containing a provision that the mortgage was being accelerated and falsely leading Plaintiff to believe that Plaintiff’s only option was to remit the entire principal balance and interest, which at that time was over $1,000,000.

6. At that time, Plaintiff was approximately 3 months in arrears and could have easily cured the default if Defendant had not deceived Plaintiff into believing that he did not have this right.

7. By the time Defendant’s Foreclosure Complaint was dismissed by the Court on February 9, 2009 for Defendant’s failure to comply with the Fair Foreclosure Act, nine (9) months had elapsed during which the improper and illegal foreclosure action had subsisted.

8. During the nine (9) months that Defendant’s improper and illegal foreclosure action subsisted, Plaintiff’s credit was destroyed and Plaintiff was paralyzed of any ability to obtain any loans to preserve and conduct his real estate business and to earn an income from same as he had historically done.

9. Due to the financial paralysis caused by Plaintiff's improper and illegal foreclosure action, and its detrimental affect on Plaintiff's ability to obtain credit to earn an income from his real estate business, Plaintiff fell behind on his other financial obligations, further harming his credit and causing him to deplete all of his savings and cash reserves in order to live and support his household.

10. By the time Defendant's Foreclosure Complaint was dismissed by the Court on February 9, 2009 for Defendant's failure to comply with the Fair Foreclosure Act, Plaintiff's credit and income-producing ability was destroyed and his savings and cash reserves depleted, leaving no meaningful ability to: (1) cure the mortgage arrears which by then were substantial; and (2) resume his income-producing endeavors which had been ongoing up until the point of Defendant's filing of its improper and illegal foreclosure complaint.

11. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' conduct as aforesaid, Plaintiff suffered economic injury, including but not limited to (1) economic injury stemming from Plaintiff's inability to consummate income-producing transactions which were in progress at the time Defendant filed its improper and illegal foreclosure action; (2) economic injury stemming from Plaintiff's inability to resume his income-producing endeavors which he had conducted for many years prior to Defendants' improper conduct; (3) economic injury from the loss of at least 3 income-producing rental properties to foreclosure due to Plaintiff's inability to service the mortgages as a result of his compromised income-producing ability; (4) economic injury stemming from the general destruction to Plaintiff's credit, and his compromised ability to obtain and use credit and/or the increase in cost of credit as a consequence of the direct and indirect damage done to his credit score; (5) economic injury stemming from the awareness by third-parties of the improper foreclosure and filed lis pendens as Plaintiff attempted to market his house, resulting in "lowball" offers from potential buyers who otherwise would have made legitimate offers were it not for the perceived desperation caused by Defendant's actions; and (6) non-economic damages suffered by Plaintiff, including but not limited to the distress that goes with powerlessly watching his income-producing abilities being destroyed after many years of hard work, his inability to support his family in the manner they were accustomed to, the indignity of relying on others for financial assistance for basic needs, and the general destruction of his goals and aspirations for his family.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff demands judgment against Defendants for such sum of money as would reasonably and properly compensate Plaintiff in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey, including punitive damages, attorney's fees, costs, interest, and any other relief as the court may deem proper.

SEVENTH COUNT

1. The prior Counts are referred to herein and made a part of this Count, but for the sake of brevity are not repeated in their entirety.

2. The actions and conduct of the Defendants were actuated by actual malice, and/or accompanied by a wanton and willful disregard of the injuries which might be suffered by Plaintiff.

3. Defendants are liable for punitive damages.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff demands judgment against Defendants for such sum of money as would reasonably and properly compensate Plaintiff in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey, including punitive damages, attorney's fees, costs, interest, and any other relief as the court may deem proper.

EIGHTH COUNT

4. The prior Counts are referred to herein and made a part of this Count, but for the sake of brevity are not repeated in their entirety.

5. At all times hereinafter mentioned, Plaintiff was a "Person" as defined in the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act.

6. At all times pertinent hereto, Defendants were corporations and/or Limited Liability Companies duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey or another State, and as such, were "Persons" as defined in the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act.

7. Defendants in all ways engaged in the act, use and employment of an unconscionable commercial practice, deception, fraud, false promise, misrepresentation, and the knowing concealment of material facts with the intent that Plaintiff rely upon such concealment, suppression or omission, in contravention of N.J.S.A. 56:8-2 and the Consumer Fraud Act.

8. As a proximate result of Defendants' actions, Plaintiff has suffered an ascertainable loss under the Consumer Fraud Act.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff demands judgment against Defendants for such sum of money as would reasonably and properly compensate Plaintiff in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey, and in accordance with N.J.S.A. 56:8-1 et seq., treble damages, attorney's fees, costs, interest, and any other relief as the court may deem proper.

Re: Below Market Offer - Reed Home - 817 Matlack Drive Moorestown, NJ 08057

To Whom It May Concern:

I am Naoji Moriuchi. I am a Realtor for BT Edgar & Son in Moorestown, NJ.

On March 20, 2010 I submitted an offer to Frank Reed's listing agent, Louise Carter. This offer was an offer to purchase Mr. Reed's house at 817 Matlack Drive Moorestown, NJ 08057.

My client became interested in purchasing Mr. Reed's house after seeing his house listed for sale. However, upon investigating the house in preparation for making an offer, my client and I became aware via the County Court House and public records that GMAC had executed a lispendens on Mr. Reed's property at 817 Matlack Drive Moorestown, NJ indicating that it was in foreclosure litigation. This placed Mr. Reed's house in the category of a "distressed" property.

Therefore, based on the comparable properties and the fact that this was a "distressed" property and in consideration of the associated risks with a "distressed" property, my client submitted an offer below fair market value.

A copy of my profile, the offer and the lispendens is attached to assist in the matter.

If there are any questions please contact me.

Sincerely,

Re: Below Market Offers - Reed Home - 817 Matlack Drive Moorestown, NJ 08057

To Whom It May Concern:

I am Louise Carter. I am a Realtor for BT Edgar & Son in Moorestown, NJ, and I have been a realtor representing both buyers and sellers in Moorestown, NJ since 1986. (Please see my professional biography attached hereto). As a result, I am very familiar with the Moorestown real estate market.

In this role, I came to be the listing agent for Frank Reed's home at 817 Matlack Drive Moorestown, NJ 08057. I sold Mr. Reed that property as well, and knowing the Moorestown real estate market, Mr. Reed's property and its history, it is my professional opinion, that Mr. Reed's house value has been impacted negatively by a foreclosure action filed against him by GMAC.

Prior to GMAC's foreclosure action, Mr. Reed had a contract for sale on his house for the amount of $2,040,000, (see: contract attached hereto). However, this sale did not close.

Unfortunately for Mr. Reed, every offer on his property AFTER GMAC filed its foreclosure against him, was substantially under market value, (see: offers attached hereto); and since the potential buyers actually disclosed that the reason for their under market offer was due to their concern over the property's foreclosure status, it is clear to me that this devalued Mr. Reed's home.

Since, Mr. Reed's last offer was for $1,100,000 and his home was valued at $2,040,000 just before the GMAC foreclosure action, (see: Appraisal and sales contract attached hereto) it is my professional opinion that Mr. Reed has lost a value of $940,000.

If you have any questions, please contact me.

Sincerely,

Louise Carter

Re: Lost Sale Profit for 9717 Old Dell Trace Richmond, Virginia 23238

To Whom It May Concern:

I am Stevie Watson. I am, and continue to be, a successful realtor in the Richmond, Virginia marketplace. Some of my credentials of note are:

- Award-Winning Top-Producer
- Ranked in the TOP 1% of all Realtors in America
- A TOP TEAM for Long and Foster in the Richmond area

(see: published bio attached)

For a number of years now, I have known Frank Reed. During this time, I have known him to purchase, renovate and / or build and sell for a profit both residential and commercial property. I have also participated in several transactions with Mr. Reed as either the buyer's and/or seller's agent.

As a result, I have a first-hand familiarity with Mr. Reed's property located at 9717 Old Dell Trace Richmond, Virginia 23238. This property in particular has even been featured in a published article about "Notable Neighborhoods" in the Richmond, Virginia area, (see: article attached).

Now, I am aware that during 2008 Mr. Reed was in the middle of an extensive expansion and capital renovation of this property. I am also aware that Mr. Reed intended to sell the property for a profit as it had recently appraised for a minimum of $1,725,000. (see: appraisal attached) Unfortunately, Mr. Reed did not finish this project and the market has since drastically declined. The current 100% assessed value of Mr. Reed's property is $608,400 (see both: Henrico County Tax Department Value attached and Henrico County valuation methodology indicating 100% market valuation process attached).

However, if Mr. Reed had finished the work on his house at 9717 Old Dell Trace Richmond, Virginia 23238, and had offered it for sale from June 2008 through the summer of 2009, it is my opinion that the house would have sold for the appraised value of $1,725,000. Therefore, it is my estimation that Mr. Reed has currently lost a value of at least $1,116,600.

If you have any questions please feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,

PLAINTIFF'S EXPERT WITNESS REPORT OF EVAN HENDRICKS

I, Evan Hendricks, provide the following Expert Report in connection with the action entitled Frank J. Reed III v. GMAC Mortgage LLC, et al., Superior Court of New Jersey, Burlington County (Docket No. L-1526-10). Part 1 of this report addresses issues that are specific to this case, including a context and history that robustly put Defendants on notice of the problems in this case and why Defendants should have prevented them. Part 2 includes my qualifications, list of prior cases in which I have testified, my fee, and more general opinions, such as the nature and purpose of credit scores and credit reports, and damages. It is likely that Defendants will disclose additional evidence after I have completed this expert report. If appropriate, and if justified by the production of additional evidence in discovery, I reserve the right to supplement this report at a future date.

Summary of Opinions

- This case is the result of Defendant GMAC ("GMAC") abusing both the foreclosure process and the credit reporting system to block the ability of Plaintiff Frank Reed ("Plaintiff" or "Mr. Reed") to avoid foreclosure by ruining his credit.
- GMAC abused the foreclosure process by failing to adhere to the all-important notice provisions in the Fair Foreclosure Act. It abused the credit reporting system by filing the foreclosure action, and instructing the credit reporting agencies (CRAs) to portray Mr. Reed as being in foreclosure, when the foreclosure action should never have been filed prior to providing a Notice of Intent to Mr. Reed.
- This set off a highly damaging chain reaction. The foreclosure on Mr. Reed's credit stood out as a "scarlet letter" and scuttled his soon-to-be-completed efforts to refinance his mortgage and avoid foreclosure. That in turn further worsened Mr. Reed's credit, making it impossible for him to obtain any meaningful credit, either to avoid foreclosure, extract equity from his home, or to continue Mr. Reed's real estate business.
- All of this caused Mr. Reed both economic and non-economic damages. The economic damages stemmed from the ruined credit that ended Mr. Reed's ability to continue his real estate business.
- Mr. Reed's economic damages include, but likely are not limited to, the losses from being unable to refinance his home mortgage, the losses stemming from his inability to sell his Moorestown property at the peak of the market, the losses and foreseeable losses stemming from Mr. Reed's inability to continue his real estate business and the loss of time and opportunity stemming from dealing with the unfair and incomplete/inaccurate credit reporting.

- The non-economic damages related to the stress, humiliation, mental anguish and frustration stemming from being blindsided by GMAC's non-compliant foreclosure, from watching his credit being ruined and knowing the consequences for his and his family's economic plans and aspirations, and from the consequential loss of reasonable control over such crucial personal information, making him a victim of chronic credit report inaccuracy.
- Given that this occurred during a period in which wrongful foreclosures were a growing, foreseeable problem, and that the damages stemming from wrongful foreclosures were potentially devastating, GMAC's actions in regard to Mr. Reed were reckless.
- From 1996 to the present, GMAC was put on notice by a variety of events of the importance of credit report accuracy.
- It is well known in our field that victims of chronic credit report inaccuracy endure a common pattern of harms. The damages suffered by Mr. Reed was consistent with those experienced by other victims. As mentioned above, Mr. Reed suffered damages that were peculiar to his situation.

Impact of 'Foreclosure' On Creditworthiness

It's logical that a foreclosure is devastating to a consumer's creditworthiness. After all, a home mortgage is often the most important credit obligation of an American consumer, and a foreclosure typically means that the consumer has defaulted on the mortgage to the point that the bank has to foreclose on the home and take possession of it.

Most lenders, like TD Bank in the case of Mr. Reed, have a policy of not approving (or even reviewing) credit applications from consumers who are in foreclosure. In addition, most lenders run automated scans of applicants' credit reports for key derogatory terms, and "foreclosure" is one of them. This is because underwriters typically will not give final approval to a credit application for someone who is in foreclosure.

The State of New Jersey has recognized foreclosure's devastating impact on the consumer through enactment of the Fair Foreclosure Act, which seeks to ensure that proper and timely notice is given to potential targets of foreclosure so they will have adequate opportunity to make things right and avoid losing their home. ("Institution of foreclosure is traumatic to the debtor-mortgagor and creates a permanent court record which can be injurious to the debtor's credit. The notice of intention is meant to give the debtor a chance to prevent acceleration and institution of foreclosure." See Myron C. Weinstein, "Law of Mortgages: Chapter 24: New Jersey's Fair Foreclosure Act. B. Notice of Intention." New Jersey Practice Series TM.)

GMAC knew or should have known all of this. GMAC's rushed and allegedly improper foreclosure action against Mr. Reed came during a period in which GMAC allegedly was falsifying documents in order to foreclose on other properties. (See Paul Kiel, "Internal Doc Reveals GMAC Filed False Document in Bid to Foreclose," ProPublica, July 27, 2011. (www.foreclosuredefenseblog.com/2011/08/firm-commentary-readers-should.html))

Thus, GMAC's reckless and highly damaging improper foreclosure against Mr. Reed coincided with other reckless and presumably highly damaging improper foreclosures against other Americans, and appeared to be part of a pattern and practice of a declining mortgage lender desperate to salvage itself by trampling on its customers' rights.

GMAC's Foreclosure Doomed Mr. Reed's Re-finance, His Path To Normalcy, & Doomed Him To 'Credit Jail'

Mr. Reed had a long-standing relationship with the TD Bank President, who had been involved with numerous loans over a period of many years as part of Mr. Reed's ongoing business of buying, improving and selling real estate. In the Spring of 2008, the TD Bank President had visited one of Mr. Reed's properties and had ordered and received an appraisal.

The approval of this loan, and the consummation of this transaction, would have enabled Mr. Reed to catch up on his debts, including the GMAC mortgage, and extract equity from his home in order to conduct his business ventures.

That is when the key moment occurred. GMAC improperly moved to foreclose on Mr. Reed's home, figuratively hanging a "scarlet letter" around his creditworthiness, and scuttling the ability to consummate a loan transaction.

This in turn set off a horrific chain reaction that resulted in Mr. Reed, figuratively, being thrown into "credit jail." Unable to complete the planned transaction and obtain the necessary funds to become current on his credit obligations (and to continue his ongoing real estate endeavors), Mr. Reed suddenly could not meet his other credit obligations and quickly fell behind. Within months, his credit report was marred with a plethora of derogatory credit accounts which further doomed any hope he had of restoring his creditworthiness and returning to a normal economic life.¹ This chain reaction was caused directly by GMAC's improper foreclosure, and it devastated Mr. Reed's life.

This caused profound economic and non-economic damages to Mr. Reed. His other expert will opine on his economic damages.

¹ According to one of Mr. Reed's credit reports, a quick review indicated that eight accounts were rendered derogatory in 2008 alone.

Mr. Reed's non-economic damages relate to the stress, humiliation, mental anguish and frustration stemming from being blindsided by GMAC's non-compliant foreclosure, from watching his credit being ruined and knowing the consequences for his and his family's economic plans and aspirations, and from the consequential loss of reasonable control over such crucial personal, financial information, making him the victim of chronic credit report inaccuracy.

I have served as an expert in several cases in which consumers/plaintiffs have been victims of chronic credit report inaccuracy. In these cases, the juries recognized the profound damage to the plaintiffs. In some of the earlier cases in which I was involved, the minimum damage award was $200,000. In more recent cases, the jury awards for actual damages have been closer to $350,000.²

Because the chronic inaccuracy caused by GMAC cut right to the heart of Mr. Reed's ability to continue earning a living, it heightened the stress, humiliation, mental anguish and frustration he experienced from being blindsided by GMAC's non-compliant foreclosure, and from watching his credit being ruined.

Thomas v. Trans Union, U.S. District Court for the District of Oregon. $5million punitive, $300,000 actual damages for emotional distress. (2001)

Soghomonian v. TransUnion, (U.S. District Court for the Northern District of California, 2004) $330,000 actual damages and $660,000 punitive damages.

Cortez v. TransUnion, LLC, U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, Case Number: 2:05-cv-5684 (April 2007); $50,000 actual damages, and $750,000.00 in punitive damages.

Therefore, in accordance with my experience as an expert in the field of chronic credit report inaccuracy, I would value his non-economic damages, at a minimum, at $350,000.³

Underlying Incentive For Furnishing

Many people do not realize that creditors' furnishing of their customers' data to credit reporting agencies (CRAs) is entirely voluntary. A fundamental incentive for large creditors such as GMAC in this case is that credit reporting is a cost-effective means of enhancing debt collection.

GMAC is keenly aware that credit reporting is a "powerful tool designed, in part, to wrench compliance with payment terms." (Rivera v. Bank One, 145 F.R.D. 64, 623 (D.P.R. 1993)). Creditors' collection letters and debt-collecting operators often advise customer-debtors that if they don't pay their debt it will result in highly derogatory data being entered on that customer's credit report which may remain for up to seven years. Creditors' collection letters often advise customer-debtors that, "Any potential employer, mortgage company, car dealership or creditor is likely to see this remark. Such a condition is far more damaging than the delinquent status you now maintain."

When a consumer applies for a mortgage, or other major form of credit, the mortgage or credit often is not granted until all outstanding unpaid debts listed on the credit report are resolved. Thus, a creditor that is owed money, or that still hopes to collect money whether or not it is actually owed by the consumer, enhances its ability to garner payment by reporting the debt to that consumer's credit report. This practice is highly problematic and damaging to the consumer when the consumer in fact does not actually owe the amount being reported to her credit report. However, it is conceivable that such practices would cause consumers, particularly those who did not know their rights, to consider paying off debts that they did not owe in order to remove serious derogatory data from their credit reports.

As I wrote in my book, "Credit Scores and Credit Reports,"

... Creditors view credit reporting as an arm of debt collection – a sort of last resort that will catch up with non-paying consumers sooner or later. This practice "crosses the line" when creditors and collectors threaten to report debts – or actually report debts – that they know or should know are not the responsibility of the consumer. [Page 31 – Second Edition]

³ I am sometimes reluctant to place a dollar value on non-economic damages for fear of "low-balling" what a future jury would decide. But I believe this initial estimate provides a reasonable basis for understanding Mr. Reed's minimum non-economic damages.

Potential Areas of Testimony: Damages Known & Common To Victims of Chronic Credit Report Inaccuracy

It is important that the trier of fact understands that victims of chronic credit report inaccuracy often experience a series of several known and common types of negative impacts.

Some Categories of Typical Negative Impacts of ID Theft & Chronic Inaccuracy

- (1) Inaccurately described as not creditworthy and/or less creditworthy to third parties
- (2) Improperly denied credit because of inaccurate data, or only able to obtain credit at less favorable rates
- (3) Expended time and energy to correct errors not of one's making; in addition to loss of time and energy, loss of opportunity
- (4) Wrongfully received debt collection calls
- (5) Chilled from applying for credit
- (6) Sleeplessness, physical symptoms
- (7) Sense of helplessness, loss of control over personal data
- (8) The emotional distress stemming from, and associated, with all of the above

The following factors could be used to gauge the severity of damage within each category.

Key Factors To Consider When Assessing Severity of Negative Impact

The nature and substance of the category of damage
Time & energy to solve the immediate problem
The expectation that the problem was solved
The number of recurrences
The period of time over which the problem persist

Mr. Reed's Damages Were Consistent with Other Victims of Chronic Credit Report Inaccuracy

Mr. Reed's damages were consistent with other victims of chronic credit report inaccuracy. His experiences touched on many of the eight categories cited above. In addition to the categories above, it is important for the trier of fact to understand that it can be very stressful not knowing everyone who may have associated you with highly derogatory credit data. Moreover, in my opinion, it can be difficult to maintain constructive personal relationships under stress.⁴ It can be difficult to perform adequately at one's job.

Defendant Knew or Should Have Known Its Actions Would Have Negative Impact

The history of credit reporting cited below, which includes years of Congressional testimony and legislative actions, Federal and State enforcement actions, abundant media coverage and targeted books, such as mine, should have made it abundantly clear to GMAC that failing to prevent Mr. Reed from becoming a victim of chronic inaccuracy would have a highly negative impact on him.

Context

Context is extremely important in this type of case, in part because credit reporting, along with inaccuracies stemming from identity theft, is a long-standing and well-known problem. An important role of experts in FCRA cases is to help the trier of fact understand the relevant context.⁵ Accordingly, I provide a brief history. An important theme emerging from this history is that a furnisher like GMAC was consistently provided notice in one form or another of the importance of ensuring the accuracy of information it reports and promptly restoring accuracy when the consumer disputes inaccuracies. This history also notified GMAC of the potential damage to consumers of both reporting erroneous information and then failing to correct it.

History of Significant Inaccuracy Problems

It is essential that the trier of fact understand that there is a long-standing problem of significant inaccuracy rates in credit reporting data. Since 1990, several non-industry studies have concluded that credit report inaccuracy is a problem of significant proportions that can have a major negative impact on the victims of inaccuracy, and that can potentially be detrimental to the credit system as well.⁶ This history is covered in Chapter 10 of my book, "Credit Scores and Mosman, ruling from the bench, stated: "As a general statement, what I'm allowing and the reason I'm allowing it is testimony that puts the particular actions of the defendant in particular here in context, in the context of the nationwide problem of identity theft, in the context of the congressional reaction to that and other issues in the credit-reporting industry, when he can by virtue of his study and his prior testimony, both in court and to Congress, make comparisons, then that's something that's helpful to the jury." Credit Reports.” As that Chapter notes, in the early 1990s, problems with inaccuracy and “mixed files,” CRA non-responsiveness and inadequate reinvestigations became the cause of complaints to the FTC.

Of particular note was the 1993 study done by the U.S. Public Interest Research Group (US PIRG), “Public Enemy #1 At The FTC.” Based upon a Freedom of Information Act request, the 1993 report found that between 1990-93, problems with credit bureaus was the leading cause of complaints to the FTC (30,901, 20.6%). The 1993 PIRG found that 44% of complaints concerned mixed files, and that among those, 64% involved the mixing of data with total strangers.

These and other complaints prompted the FCRA’s oversight authorities – the FTC and State Attorneys General – to launch investigations and take enforcement actions. These actions resulted in a series of separate consent decrees involving Equifax, Experian and Trans Union in which each pledged to do a better job of maintaining accuracy, avoiding mixed files and the reappearance of previously deleted data, being more responsive and conducting adequate reinvestigations.

History: Increased Attention on Role of Furnisher

This Consent Agreements are also relevant because (1) they created widespread publicity about the problems of credit report inaccuracy, (2) they articulated (an agreed upon) higher and more specific standard of care to ensure accuracy and fairness, and (3) they formed the foundation for the 1996 Amendments to the FCRA. However, Congress knew that to ensure accuracy, it needed to go beyond the Consent Agreements by placing duties on furnishers to report information accurately.

The April 1994 House Banking Committee Report on the proposed amendments explained why, despite the consent agreements, and subsequent industry guidelines, legislation was necessary: “Moreover, because the industry guidelines are simply voluntary, they are unenforceable and may be changed or revoked at any time. Many of the provisions in the consent agreements expire after a short period of time, are not enforceable by consumers, and do not apply in every state. Additionally, these agreements do not impose any reinvestigation obligations on furnishers of information or on credit bureaus other than the three largest. Because of these limitations, federal legislation is necessary to improve accuracy-related protections for consumers. Consequently, the bill contains new reinvestigation procedures which are intended to cut down on the number of errors in consumer reports and to reduce the delay in correcting those errors." [Emphasis Added]

found that 44% of complaints concerned mixed files, and that among those, 64% involved the mixing of data with total strangers.

Importantly, the Consent Agreements' language on preventing reinsertion was incorporated and expanded upon in the 1996 Amendments to the FCRA. Under Sect. 1681 (a)(5)(B), information cannot be reinserted unless it is "certified" as complete and accurate by the furnisher. Moreover, a CRA, five business days prior to any reinsertion, must notify the consumer, and also provide the name and address of the furnisher and inform him or her of his right to add a statement.

Despite these Consent Decrees, the problems of mixed files, inadequate reinvestigations and reappearance did not go away. Throughout the early 1990s, Congress held a series of hearings in which numerous consumers and consumer advocates described problems with inaccuracy, mixed files, CRA non-responsiveness, and inadequate reinvestigations. This resulted in the 1996 legislative amendments to the FCRA.

I cite this brief history because it makes clear that for many years, a furnisher like GMAC has been on notice from Congress, the FTC, State AGs, the media and the public that it is important to ensure accuracy, and to reasonably investigate consumer disputes, and that it can be highly damaging when inaccurate information is not removed.

Part 2

Potential Areas of Testimony: General Issues, Context

- A. The Nature and Purpose of Credit Scores
- B. The Nature and Purpose of Credit Reports

Nature & Purpose of Credit Scores

It is possible that the trier of fact is not intimately familiar with either the credit reporting or credit scoring systems. If this is the case, I can provide expert testimony on the nature of both systems, how to read and understand credit reports and how to dispute errors, the parameters of credit scoring, the general impact that derogatory data have on a credit score, the interplay between identify theft, credit scoring and credit reporting, and other related matters.

A credit score is a number that reflects a consumer's creditworthiness at a given point in time. The FICO model credit score, which is used by 75 percent of lenders, is based entirely on information in a consumer's credit report. The model was developed by Fair, Isaac & Co., which licenses it to Equifax, Experian and Trans Union and others. The scoring range for the FICO “classic” model is 300-850. The various types of “Beacon” scores sold by Equifax, and “Classic FICOs” sold by Trans Union,⁷ are based upon the FICO model. The higher the credit score, the less risky the consumer is viewed by creditors. Consequently, consumers with higher-end credit scores (720 and above) often can obtain the most favorable rates for mortgages, refinancing, personal and auto loans and auto and homeowners insurance, and also often receive solicitations for the best quality credit cards. Conversely, the lower the score, the less favorable the rate. A credit score of 620 and below is widely regarded as “sub-prime.”

Maintaining a good credit score is important because of a fundamental rule: the lower one’s score, the more one pays for credit, including higher interest on mortgages, auto loans, installment loans and credit cards.

For example, the Web site of Fair Isaac Corp., www.myfico.com,⁸ gives this example of the difference that credit scores make in terms of interest and monthly payments, on a $300,000 30-year, fixed-rate mortgage:

Your FICO® Score	Your Interest Rate	Your Monthly Payment
760 - 850	6.148%	$1,827
700 - 759	6.370%	$1,871
680 - 699	6.654%	$1,927
660 - 679	7.464%	$2,090
640 - 659	8.816%	$2,374
620 - 639	9.782%	$2,584

A similar chart exists for auto loans. Moreover, about half of the major credit card companies practice “Universal Default,” meaning that these companies will raise their cardholders’ interest rates if those cardholders’ credit scores drop below certain levels – even if the cardholder never had a late payment with the company.⁹

1. The precise workings of the FICO score are highly proprietary and therefore closely guarded. However, the general parameters are publicly available:¹⁰

35% -- Payment history. Late payments, particularly major or serious derogatories, like 90-days late or worse, and particularly on important accounts like mortgages, are very damaging to one’s credit score.

⁷ In previous years, the Trans Union FICO Score was called “Empirica”

⁸ Visited September 21, 2005

⁹ Universal default is described in detail in Chapter 22 of the 2nd Edition of “Credit Scores and Credit Reports,” op. cit.

¹⁰ These parameters are published in Chpr 1 of both Editions of “Credit Scores and Credit Reports,” op. cit.

30% -- Credit Utilization. The ratio between available “revolving” credit and how much is actually used (credit card balances vs. credit card limits).

15% -- Length of Credit History. The longer you maintain a positive credit history, the better it is for your credit score.

10% -- How Much New Credit?. This relates to “inquiries” that creditors make when you apply for credit.

5% -- Healthy Mix of Credit? The scoring model prefers to see a “healthy mix” of mortgage, credit cards and perhaps other kinds of credit.

2. It is important to understand that consumers are most severely penalized when they have a serious derogatory within the past eleven months. The “importance of being recent” is illustrated by the following Fair Isaac chart, which shows, in a proportional sense, that a major delinquency in the past year has a 93% negative impact, while a major delinquency between 1-2 years-old has about a 60% negative impact; a major delinquency between 2-3 years-old has a 44% negative impact; a 3-4 year old delinquency has a 33% impact; any delinquency older than 4 years has only a 22% negative impact.

Previous credit performance

There is growing public awareness about credit scoring, but it is by no means complete. A September 2004 survey by Opinion Research Corporation Intl. sponsored by the Consumer Federation of America (CFA) and Provident Financial, a major credit card issuer, found that:

Few consumers know what constitutes a good score. Only 12% correctly identified the low 600s as the level below which they would be denied credit or have to pay a higher, sub-prime rate. (One-third thought this level was the low 500s, and 30% said they didn't know.) And, only 13% correctly understand that scores above the low 700s usually qualify them for the lowest rates.

<http://www.consumerfed.org/092104creditscores.PDF>

A March 2005 General Accounting Office study found that about one-third of respondents had obtained their credit scores. While 70 percent of respondents correctly identified the definition of a credit score and understood many of the factors that could impact credit scores, only 28 percent could provide a number within a range of possible credit scores. In addition, consumers were more familiar with some of the factors that affected credit scores than with others. For example, while most consumers knew that skipping loan payments or making late credit card payments had a negative effect on credit scores, about half did not know that using all the credit available to them, such as reaching the maximum limit on a credit card or home equity loan, had a negative effect. Also, when asked about information that had no effect on credit scores (such as a low checking account balance), about half of consumers answered the questions incorrectly or said that they did not know, the GAO found.¹¹

Nature & Purpose Of Credit Reports

Similar to credit scoring, there is growing public awareness about the credit reporting system, but it is not universal.

According to a July 2003 survey by the Consumer Federation of America, "Only 25 percent of Americans – and less than 20 percent of those with incomes below $35,000 – said they knew what their credit score was. But only three percent of Americans could, unprompted, name the three main credit bureaus-Experian, Equifax, and Trans Union-that provide both lenders and consumers with information from credit reports. Forty-three percent of Americans (35 percent of those with incomes below $35,000) said they had obtained a copy of their credit report from the three credit bureaus in the past two years."

A March 2005 General Accounting office report concluded that the public's understanding of credit reports and credit scores was improving, but that a federal education campaign was needed to better inform those segments of the population that remain unfamiliar with the systems. The report found that 60 percent of respondents had seen their credit reports, most often because they were making a large purchase or refinancing a loan. Most of these consumers said that they understood their reports. However, about half (53 percent) did not know that information could stay on their report for 7 or 10 years.¹²

It is important that the trier of fact have an accurate understanding of the nature and purpose of credit reports. Accordingly, a brief description of the consumer report is fundamental to my opinions in this case.

¹¹ General Accounting Office, "Credit Reporting Literacy: Consumers Understood the Basics but Could Benefit from Targeted Educational Efforts" (GAO-05-223). www.gao.gov/new.items/d05223.pdf

A consumer report, sometimes referred to as a credit report, consists of highly sensitive and personal information, containing a compilation of a consumer's current credit relationships, their credit history, their employment history, estimated income and identifying information, such as name, address, phone number and Social Security Number (SSN). There are three major repositories known as credit bureaus or consumer reporting agencies (CRAs) -- Equifax, Trans Union and Experian. The CRAs regularly receive updates on a consumer's credit relationships from credit grantors -- banks, mortgage companies, credit card issuers, department stores and others. The consumer report typically contains highly sensitive details about a consumer's finances, including account numbers, loan amounts, credit limits and payment history. It also can contain information on the consumer's interaction with the judicial system, including paid or unpaid civil judgments or bankruptcies.

The Credit Report consists of three (or four) basic sections:

- (1) A section with the consumer's identifying information-name, address, Social Security number, date of birth, previous address, employer, and sometimes phone number.
- (2) A section with the consumer's payment history, including mortgage, auto and installment loans, credit cards and department store cards, collections, and public records like bankruptcy and court judgments.
- (3) If applicable, a section showing public record information, like bankruptcies, court judgments and tax liens.
- (4) A section showing inquiries, in other words, those companies which accessed the report and for what purposes.

In addition, attached to the credit report is

- (1) A form for disputing errors, and
- (2) A statement of your rights under the FCRA

Each of the Big Three CRAs uses a slightly different format. A fundamental purpose of the credit report is to describe a consumer's creditworthiness. For example, the Equifax report lists the codes showing how consumers are classified when they don't pay their bills on time. Along with these numeric codes, a credit report can have a letter showing the type of credit, i.e., "R" for revolving (credit card) and "I" for installment (personal loan). The code for someone who always paid her credit card on time would be "R1." Here are the numeric codes:

- 2 : 30-59 Days Past Due
- 3 : 60-89 Days Past Due
- 4 : 90-119 Days Past Due
- 5 : Over 120 Days Past Due
- 7 : Included in Wage Earner Plan
- 8 : Repossession
- 9 : Charge Off
- Blank : No Data available for that month
- 0 : Too new to rate, or unrated
- 1 : On Time

The Trans Union and Experian credit reports describe similar categories with a text narrative, rather than with an alpha-numeric code.

It is important to note that public record information like bankruptcy, judgments and tax liens, and charge-offs (R-9) and collections, are considered some of the most negative entries. It is also important to note that when a creditor reports a negative tradeline as disputed, that tradeline typically is not scored and therefore does not negatively impact the credit score.

Credit grantors typically review a consumer's report and/or credit score when deciding to grant that consumer some form of credit, whether it is a loan or a credit card. Credit grantors also review consumer reports and/or credit scores on current customers to periodically check on their customers' creditworthiness. This is known as an "Account Review." Credit card issuers regularly use consumer reports and/or credit scores to screen consumers for "pre-approved" credit offers. Some employers use consumer reports to evaluate job applicants. Insurers use credit reports for underwriting purposes, and also use credit scores, but presumably only where not prohibited by State law.

Background & Qualifications (Curriculum Vitae Attached)

My expertise in credit reporting stems from several of my professional activities, including:

- (1) Editor/Publisher of a specialty news reporting service that covers credit reporting, Fair Information practices and related matters;
- (2) Author of the book Credit Scores and Credit Reports: How The System Really Works, What You Can Do, 3rd Edition, (Privacy Times 2005), and co-author of a book with a chapter on credit reporting;
- (3) An expert witness qualified by Federal and State courts in Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) litigation;
- (4) an expert on credit reporting who has testified before Congress on numerous occasions, including four hearings in 2003, and who has testified twice before the California legislature in regards to legislation on the use of financial data, and who regularly presents at Continuing Legal Education and other professional events; and
- (5) an expert consultant to government agencies and private corporations, a member of the Consumer Advisory Council of Experian (one of the three national Credit Reporting Agencies (CRAs), and as one who has earned FCRA Certification from the National Credit Reporting Association (NCRA).

Since 1981, I have been Editor/Publisher of Privacy Times, a biweekly, Washington-based newsletter that reports on privacy and information law, including the Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA). The newsletter ranges from 8-12 pages, 23 issues per year. Thus, I have researched, written, edited and published many articles on Congressional and State legislative actions, judicial opinions, industry trends and actions, executive branch policies and consumer news as they related to the FCRA.

I am author of the book, Credit Scores and Credit Reports: How The System Really Works, What You Can Do (3rd Edition, Privacy Times 2007). The book has 23 Chapters, 399 pages and 415 footnotes. As the title indicates, it describes how the credit scoring and credit reporting systems work and what consumers can do to obtain their reports, read and understand them, correct errors in them and enforce their rights. I also am co-author of Your Right To Privacy: A Basic Guide To Legal Rights In An Information Society (2nd Edition, Southern Illinois University Press, 1990), which has a chapter on credit reporting.

Since the early 1990s, I have served as an expert witness in numerous FCRA cases and have been qualified by the federal courts. As an expert witness, I have had the opportunity to read thousands of pages of deposition testimony by consumer reporting agency officials and by credit grantor personnel responsible for reporting data to CRAs. This is significant because CRAs and credit grantors do not openly discuss or publish information on their procedures and practices for handling personal data. In fact, CRAs typically consider such procedures and practices to be proprietary and/or trade secrets. To my knowledge, the best (and possibly only) sources for finding candid descriptions of CRAs' and credit grantors' procedures and practices in relation to credit reporting data are the depositions of CRA and credit grantor employees in FCRA litigation. Due to my access to this information, I have augmented my specialized body of knowledge on practices and procedures related to credit scoring and credit reporting.

I have testified numerous times before Congress – always by invitation – on issues related to the collection, maintenance, security, use and disclosure of sensitive personal data, including credit reports and other financial information. (Consult CV for list of hearings and Web links to testimony.)

In 2003, the year in which Congress was dedicated to a major upgrade of the FCRA, I testified twice before the Senate and twice before the House, and presented once before the FTC. The hearings covered a wide range of credit reporting issues, accuracy, fairness, privacy, CRA procedures and security:

“The Accuracy of Credit Report Information and the Fair Credit Reporting Act,” Senate Banking Committee, July 10, 2003¹³

“The Role of FCRA in the Credit Granting Process,” House Financial Services Subcommittee on Financial Institutions & Consumer Credit, June 12, 2003¹⁴

“Database Security: Finding Out When Your Information Has Been Compromised,” Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Technology, Terrorism and Government Information, Nov. 4, 2003¹⁵

“Fighting Fraud: Improving Information Security,” House Financial Services Subcommittee on Financial Institutions & Consumer Credit, and Oversight, April 3, 2003¹⁶

“Information Flows: The Costs and Benefits to Consumers and Businesses of The Collection and Use of Consumer Information,” Federal Trade Commission, National Workshop, June 18, 2003

Some of my recommendations were reflected in the final FCRA Amendments approved by Congress and signed by President Bush in December 2003.

On December 3, 2002, I testified before the California State Senate Insurance Committee. On January 29, 2003, I testified before the California State Assembly Insurance Committee. Both Committees were considering financial privacy legislation (SB 1), which ultimately was enacted by the legislature and signed into law in September 2003.

I regularly present at Continuing Legal Education or professional seminars related to the FCRA. (Consult CV.)

Two of the three major CRAs have acknowledged that I am an expert on credit reporting as it relates to "Fair Information Practices." First developed in the United States in the late 1960s, Fair Information Practices (FIPs) standards are at the core of the FCRA and most other U.S. and European privacy and data protection laws, and serve as an internationally accepted standard for gauging privacy policy and practices.

In 1990, Equifax published "The Equifax Report on Consumers In the Information Age," a nationwide opinion survey and analysis by Louis Harris and Associates and Prof. Alan F. Westin. The report listed me as a privacy expert to whom the authors expressed appreciation for my advice on survey coverage.

In April 2002, I accepted Experian's invitation to serve on the Experian Consumer Advisory Council of Experian (formerly TRW), a national CRA and vendor of other information services. Before being disbanded in 2004, the Council met twice a year to offer non-binding advice and to discuss a host of credit reporting, marketing and other privacy-related topics.

In 2004, I passed an industry examination, thereby earning "FCRA Certification" from the National Credit Reporting Association.

Since August 1998, I have served under contract as a member of the Social Security Administration's Panel Of Privacy Experts advising the agency on a host of issues.

CURRICULUM VITAE

Professional Activities

1981- Present Editor/Publisher of Privacy Times

Since 1981, I have been Editor/Publisher of Privacy Times, a biweekly, Washington-based newsletter that reports on privacy and information law, including the Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA). The newsletter ranges from 8-12 pages, 23 issues per year. Thus, I have researched, written, edited and published many articles on Congressional and State legislative actions, judicial opinions, industry trends and actions, executive branch policies and consumer news as they related to the FCRA.

1992 – Present Expert Witness

Qualified by the federal courts in FCRA and identity theft cases. (Complete list attached). I have read extensive deposition testimony by credit bureau and credit grantor personnel. This is significant because CRAs and credit grantors do not openly discuss or publish information on their procedures and practices for handling personal data, and the best (and possibly only) sources for finding candid descriptions of CRAs' and credit grantors' procedures and practices in relation to credit reporting data are the depositions of CRA and credit grantor employees in FCRA litigation.

1998 – Present Privacy Expert Consultant, U.S. Social Security Administration

Regularly review policies and practices in relation to the collection, use and disclosure of personal data and Social Security numbers and provide feedback and recommendations.

2002 – 2004 Member, Experian Consumer Advisory Council

Along with other Council members, I provide an outsider's view on credit reporting, marketing and other privacy issues.

July – October 2002 Consultant to U.S. Postal Service

Working with the USPS's Chief Privacy Officer, I assisted in reviewing and editing the re-write of the USPS's Privacy Act notices, with an emphasis on "Plain English."

STATEMENT OF FACTS

On or about May 19, 2008, Defendant filed a Complaint for Foreclosure in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Chancery Division, General Equity Part, Docket No. F-19177-08, seeking to foreclose Plaintiffs' equity of redemption in their home. On or about May 28, 2008, Defendant, through its agents, caused a Lis Pendens to be recorded with the Burlington County Clerk. Defendant failed to provide Plaintiffs with the "notice of intention" required by the Fair Foreclosure Act prior to filing its Complaint for Foreclosure on or about May 19, 2008. As a result, the Court dismissed the foreclosure case. Plaintiff has filed the instant case, which asserts a cause of action against Defendants for negligence and breach of contract. Defendants have moved to dismiss, contending that the Complaint fails to state a claim.

LEGAL ARGUMENT

POINT I: DEFENDANTS' ASSERTION THAT THE COMPLAINT FAILS TO STATE A CLAIM IS CLEARLY WITHOUT MERIT

Defendants' motion can be easily rejected. Plaintiffs' cause of action is for negligence. Specifically, Plaintiffs contend that Defendant had a legal duty to exercise care and to refrain from filing a foreclosure complaint prior to providing Plaintiffs with the Notice of Intent to Foreclose required by the Fair Foreclosure Act. The Fair Foreclosure Act requires that such Notice of Intent be served, by both regular and certified mail, before instituting such proceedings. N.J.S.A. 2A:50-56. Defendant failed to serve the Notice before filing its Complaint. Furthermore, Defendant filed a Lis Pendens after improperly filing the Complaint. Plaintiffs allege that Defendant deviated from the standard of care owed to them, and that Defendant's negligence proximately caused them economic injury. Defendant's assertion that negligence is not a viable claim simply lacks merit.

While the violation of a statute is not necessarily negligence per se, a statute creates standards of conduct, the "violation of which a jury in a negligence action should take into consideration in arriving at their ultimate determination of negligence." Horbal v. McNeil, 66 N.J. 99, 103 (1974). It has also been said that statutory violations are "evidence of negligence." Id. The question of whether Defendants were negligent, that is, whether they deviated from their standard of care, and whether such deviation was the proximate cause of Plaintiffs' economic damages, is one for a jury. There is simply no basis for Defendants to assert that the Complaint fails to state a claim. Notably, Defendants fail to cite any law for their proposition.

Furthermore, the Complaint asserts a cause of action in contract; that is, that Defendants had a contractual duty to first serve a Notice of Intent to Foreclose before proceeding with a foreclosure action.

Defendants observe that our courts have dismissed foreclosure actions when the lender could not demonstrate that a Notice of Intent to Foreclose was duly served on the borrower. See EMC Mortgage Corp. v. Chaudri, 400 N.J. Super. 126 (App. Div. 2008). While that is correct, it is patently irrelevant to the issue at hand, and certainly does not support Defendants assertion that Plaintiff has failed to state a claim. Defendant seems to be saying that the dismissal of the foreclosure action is sufficient relief for a borrower, and that a borrower should not be able to bring a civil action against the lender for negligence. Defendants apparently make the grand leap to that conclusion, with absolutely no support whatsoever. Defendants do not cite any law whatsoever for their conclusion.

In fact, the Fair Foreclosure Act on its face contradicts Defendants' argument. Specifically, it provides:

The duty of the lender under this section to serve notice of intention to foreclose is independent of any other duty to give notice under the common law, principles of equity, State or federal statute, or rule of court and of any other right or remedy the debtor may have as a result of the failure to give such notice. N.J.S.A. 2A:50-56(e) (emphasis added).

Clearly, Plaintiffs are perfectly justified in prosecuting a civil action for negligence as a "right or remedy" for Defendant's failure to give notice.

Plaintiffs assert in their Complaint that Defendants failed to exercise the required standard of care, and negligently and/or recklessly filed a Complaint for Foreclosure and recorded a Lis Pendens against Plaintiffs' property without first discharging its statutory duty to provide a "notice of intention" as required by the Fair Foreclosure Act. Plaintiffs further assert that at the time of such improper filing, Plaintiffs were in the process of consummating financial transactions which, as a proximate result of Defendants' negligent and/or reckless conduct, were not consummated and which, but for Defendant's negligent and/or reckless conduct, would have been consummated. Plaintiffs further assert that at all relevant times, Defendants knew or should have known that a foreclosure filing and Lis Pendens recording would severely compromise Plaintiffs' financial dealings, including but not limited to Plaintiffs' ability to obtain credit. Plaintiffs had a reasonable expectation that until such time as they would receive the proper statutory notice followed by the passage of the thirty (30) day period required by law, that they would have the ability to pursue their financial dealings in peace, free from the devastating effects that a foreclosure filing and Lis Pendens would inflict upon them. As further set forth in the Complaint, but for the negligent and reckless conduct of Defendants in prematurely filing a Complaint for Foreclosure and recording a Lis Pendens, Plaintiffs would have consummated a refinance transaction with another lender which would have paid off the mortgage and allowed them to cash out equity. Defendants' negligent and reckless actions made it impossible for Plaintiffs to consummate their financial transactions which had been pending, and destroyed Plaintiffs' credit and future ability to reinstate or pay off the mortgage loan as is permitted by the Fair Foreclosure Act. The fact that the foreclosure was ultimately dismissed nearly a year later did nothing to undo the catastrophic damage caused by Defendants' negligence. Clearly, these are triable issues of fact for a jury.

CONCLUSION

For all of the foregoing reasons, the Plaintiffs respectfully submit that Defendants' motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim should be denied.

Respectfully submitted,

Executive Summary

The Federal Reserve System, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC), the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC), and the Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS), referred to as the agencies, conducted on-site reviews of foreclosure processing at 14 federally regulated mortgage servicers during the fourth quarter of 2010.¹

This report provides a summary of the review findings and an overview of the potential impacts associated with instances of foreclosure-processing weaknesses that occurred industrywide. In addition, this report discusses the supervisory response made public simultaneous with the issuance of this report, as well as expectations going forward to address the cited deficiencies. The supervisory measures employed by the agencies are intended to ensure safe and sound mortgage-servicing and foreclosure-processing business practices are implemented. The report also provides an overview of how national standards for mortgage servicing can help address specific industrywide weaknesses identified during these reviews.

Review Scope and Objectives

The primary objective of each review was to evaluate the adequacy of controls and governance over servicers' foreclosure processes and assess servicers' authority to foreclose. The reviews focused on issues related to foreclosure-processing functions. While the reviews uncovered significant problems in foreclosure processing at the servicers included in the report, examiners reviewed a relatively small number of files from among the volumes of foreclosures processed by the servicers. Therefore, the reviews could not provide a reliable estimate of the number of foreclosures that should not have proceeded. The agencies, therefore, are requiring each servicer to retain an independent firm to conduct a thorough review of foreclosure actions that were pending at any time from January 1, 2009, through December 31, 2010, to, among other things, 1) identify borrowers that have been financially harmed by deficiencies identified in the independent review and 2) provide remediation to those borrowers where appropriate. These independent reviews will be subject to supervisory oversight to ensure that the reviews are comprehensive and the results are reliable.

For the reviews discussed in this report, examiners evaluated each servicer's self-assessments of their foreclosure policies and processes; assessed each servicer's foreclosure operating procedures and controls; interviewed servicer staff involved in the preparation of foreclosure documents; and reviewed, collectively for all servicers, approximately 2,800 borrower foreclosure files that were in various stages of the foreclosure process between January 1, 2009, and December 31, 2010.²

Examiners focused on foreclosure policies and procedures; quality control and audits; organizational structure and staffing; and vendor management, ¹ Agencies conducted foreclosure-processing reviews at Ally Bank/GMAC, Aurora Bank, Bank of America, Citibank, EverBank, HSBC, JPMorgan Chase, MetLife, OneWest, PNC, Sovereign Bank, SunTrust, U.S. Bank, and Wells Fargo. The reviews included mortgage-servicing activities conducted by insured banks and thrifts, as well as by several nonbank affiliates of these organizations. The 14 servicers were selected based on the concentration of their mortgage-servicing and foreclosure-processing activities. The agencies typically do not disclose examinations or examination findings regarding particular institutions. In light of the formal enforcement actions entered into by these 14 servicers, which are being made public, the agencies have determined that it is appropriate to identify the servicers (whether a bank or a bank affiliate) that were reviewed. The bank and thrift holding company parents of Ally Bank/GMAC, Bank of America, Citibank, Everbank, HSBC, JPMorgan Chase, MetLife, OneWest, PNC, SunTrust, U.S. Bank, and Wells Fargo also entered into formal enforcement actions.

² Foreclosure files at each servicer were selected from the population of in-process and completed foreclosures during 2010. The foreclosure file sample at each servicer included foreclosures from both judicial states and nonjudicial states. Review teams independently selected foreclosure file samples based on pre-established criteria (such as files for which consumer complaints had been raised, or those in geographic areas with high volumes of foreclosures) with the balance of the files selected based on examiner judgment.

including use of third-party vendors such as foreclosure attorneys, Lender Processing Services (LPS) and other default-service providers, and MERSCORP and its wholly owned subsidiary, Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems, Inc. (MERS). Based on their reviews of the limited number of foreclosure-file samples, examiners also assessed the accuracy of foreclosure-related documentation, including note endorsements and the assignments of mortgages and deeds of trust, and loan document control.³ With respect to those files, examiners also assessed whether fees charged in connection with the foreclosures exceeded the amounts reflected in the servicers' internal records. In addition, the Federal Reserve and the OCC solicited views from consumer groups to help detect problems at specific servicers, and the Federal Reserve expanded the file sample to include borrowers who were delinquent, but not yet in foreclosure.

The file reviews did not include a complete analysis of the payment history of each loan prior to foreclosure or potential mortgage-servicing issues outside of the foreclosure process. Accordingly, examiners may not have uncovered cases of misapplied payments or unreasonable fees, particularly when these actions occurred prior to the default that led to the foreclosure action. The foreclosure-file reviews also may not have uncovered certain facts related to the processing of a foreclosure that would lead an examiner to conclude that a foreclosure otherwise should not have proceeded, such as undocumented communications between a servicer employee and the borrower in which the employee told the borrower he or she had to be delinquent on the loan to qualify for a modification. In addition, the reviews did not focus on loan-modification processes, but when reviewing individual foreclosure files, examiners checked for evidence that servicers were in contact with borrowers and had considered alternative loss-mitigation efforts, including loan modifications.

To ensure consistency in the reviews, the agencies used standardized work programs to guide the assessment and to document findings pertaining to each servicer's corporate governance process and the individual foreclosure-file reviews. The work programs were organized into the following categories:

- Policies and procedures. Examiners reviewed the servicers' policies and procedures to see if they provided adequate controls over the foreclosure process and whether those policies and procedures were sufficient for compliance with applicable laws and regulations.

³ For purposes of this report, default management services generally include administrative support and services provided to the servicers by third-party vendors to manage and perform the tasks associated with foreclosures.

- Organizational structure and staffing. Examiners reviewed the functional unit(s) responsible for foreclosure processes, including their staffing levels, their staff's qualifications, and their training programs.
- Management of third-party service providers. Examiners reviewed the servicers' oversight of key third parties used throughout the foreclosure process, with a focus on foreclosure attorneys, MERS, and default-service providers such as LPS.
- Quality control and internal audits. Examiners assessed quality-control processes in foreclosures. Examiners also reviewed internal and external audit reports, including government-sponsored enterprise (GSE) and investor audits and reviews of foreclosure activities as well as servicers' self-assessments.
- Compliance with applicable laws. Examiners checked the adequacy of the governance, audits, and controls that servicers had in place to ensure compliance with applicable laws.
- Loss mitigation. Examiners determined if servicers were in direct communication with borrowers and whether loss-mitigation actions, including loan modifications, were considered as alternatives to foreclosure.
- Critical documents. Examiners evaluated servicers' control over critical documents in the foreclosure process, including the safeguarding of original loan documentation. Examiners also determined whether critical foreclosure documents were in the foreclosure files that they reviewed, and whether notes were endorsed and mortgages assigned.
- Risk management. Examiners assessed whether servicers appropriately identified financial, reputational, and legal risks and whether these risks were communicated to the board of directors and senior management of the servicer.

Summary of Review Findings

The reviews found critical weaknesses in servicers' foreclosure governance processes, foreclosure document preparation processes, and oversight and monitoring of third-party vendors, including foreclosure attorneys. While it is important to note that findings varied across institutions, the weaknesses at each servicer, individually or collectively, resulted in unsafe and unsound practices and violations of applicable federal and state law and requirements.⁴ The results elevated the agencies' concern that widespread risks may be presented—to consumers, communities, various market participants, and the overall mortgage market. The servicers included in this review represent more than two-thirds of the servicing market. Thus, the agencies consider problems cited within this report to have widespread consequences for the national housing market and borrowers.

Based on the deficiencies identified in these reviews and the risks of additional issues as a result of weak controls and processes, the agencies at this time are taking formal enforcement actions against each of the 14 servicers subject to this review to address those weaknesses and risks. The enforcement actions require each servicer, among other things, to conduct a more complete review of certain aspects of foreclosure actions that occurred between January 1, 2009, and December 31, 2010. The specific supervisory responses are summarized in Part 3 of this report.

The loan-file reviews showed that borrowers subject to foreclosure in the reviewed files were seriously delinquent on their loans. As previously stated, the reviews conducted by the agencies should not be viewed as an analysis of the entire lifecycle of the borrowers' loans or potential mortgage-servicing issues outside of the foreclosure process. The reviews also showed that servicers possessed original notes and mortgages and, therefore, had sufficient documentation available to demonstrate authority to foreclose. Further, examiners found evidence that servicers generally attempted to contact distressed borrowers prior to initiating the foreclosure process to pursue loss-mitigation alternatives, including loan modifications. However, examiners did note cases in which foreclosures should not have proceeded due to an intervening event or condition, such as the borrower (a) was covered by the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act, (b) filed for bankruptcy shortly before the foreclosure action, or (c) qualified for or was paying in accordance with a trial modification.⁵

The interagency reviews identified significant weaknesses in several areas.

- Foreclosure process governance. Foreclosure governance processes of the servicers were underdeveloped and insufficient to manage and control operational, compliance, legal, and reputational risk associated with an increasing volume of foreclosures. Weaknesses included:

- inadequate policies, procedures, and independent control infrastructure covering all aspects of the foreclosure process;
- inadequate monitoring and controls to oversee foreclosure activities conducted on behalf of servicers by external law firms or other third-party vendors;
- lack of sufficient audit trails to show how information set out in the affidavits (amount of indebtedness, fees, penalties, etc.) was linked to the servicers' internal records at the time the affidavits were executed;
- inadequate quality control and audit reviews to ensure compliance with legal requirements, policies and procedures, as well as the maintenance of sound operating environments; and
- inadequate identification of financial, reputational, and legal risks, and absence of internal communication about those risks among boards of directors and senior management.

- Organizational structure and availability of staffing. Examiners found inadequate organization and staffing of foreclosure units to address the increased volumes of foreclosures.

- Affidavit and notarization practices. Individuals who signed foreclosure affidavits often did not personally check the documents for accuracy or possess the level of knowledge of the information that they attested to in those affidavits. In addition, some foreclosure documents indicated they were executed under oath, when no oath was administered. Examiners also found that the majority of the servicers had improper notary practices which failed to conform to state legal requirements. These determinations were based primarily on servicers' self-assessments of their foreclosure processes and examiners' interviews of servicer staff involved in the preparation of foreclosure documents.

- Documentation practices. Examiners found some—but not widespread—errors between actual fees charged and what the servicers' internal records indicated, with servicers undercharging fees as frequently as overcharging them. The dollar amount of overcharged fees as compared with the servicers' internal records was generally small.

- Third-party vendor management. Examiners generally found adequate evidence of physical control and possession of original notes and mortgages. Examiners also found, with limited exceptions, that notes appeared to be properly endorsed and mortgages and deeds of trust appeared properly assigned.⁶ The review did find that, in some cases, the third-party law firms hired by the servicers were nonetheless filing mortgage foreclosure complaints or lost-note affidavits even though proper documentation existed.
- Quality control (QC) and audit. Examiners found weaknesses in quality control and internal auditing procedures at all servicers included in the review.

Summary of Supervisory Response

The agencies recognize that a number of supervisory actions and industry reforms are required to address these weaknesses in a way that will hold servicers accountable for establishing necessary governance and controls. Measures that the servicers are being required to implement are designed to ensure compliance with applicable laws, promote foreclosure processing in a safe and sound manner, and establish responsible business practices that provide accountability and appropriate treatment to borrowers.

⁶ The agencies expect federally regulated servicers to have the necessary policies and procedures in place to ensure that notes are properly endorsed and mortgages are properly assigned, so that ownership can be determined at the time of foreclosure. Where federally regulated servicers serve as document custodians for themselves or other investors, the agencies require controls and tracking systems to properly safeguard the physical security and maintenance of critical loan documents.

At this time, the agencies are taking formal enforcement action against each of the 14 servicers and parent bank holding companies because the deficiencies and weaknesses identified during the reviews represent unsafe or unsound practices and violations of applicable law. The foreclosure-file reviews showed that borrowers in the sampled pool were seriously delinquent. The reviews also showed that the appropriate party brought the foreclosure action. However, a limited number of mortgages should not have proceeded to foreclosure because of an intervening event or condition. Nevertheless, the weaknesses in servicers' foreclosure processes, as confirmed by the reviews, present significant risk to the safety and soundness of mortgage activities. The failures and deficiencies identified as part of the reviews must be remedied swiftly and comprehensively.

The agencies will continue to assess and monitor corrective actions and will address servicers' failures to correct identified deficiencies where necessary.

Going forward, servicers must develop and demonstrate effective risk management of servicing operations to prevent a recurrence of deficiencies cited in this report. The agencies are currently engaged in an effort to establish national mortgage-servicing standards to promote the safe and sound operation of mortgage-servicing and foreclosure processing, including standards for accountability and responsiveness to borrower concerns. Such an effort will include engaging the Government Sponsored Enterprises, private investors, consumer groups, the servicing industry, and other regulators. Part 4 of this report provides a general overview of the core principles that should be included in future national mortgage-servicing standards.

Part 1: Background and Risks Associated with Weak Foreclosure Process and Controls

Mortgage servicing plays a central role in the management of mortgage loans from origination to final disposition. The mortgage servicer is the intermediary between borrowers and their lenders. When the borrower is paying as agreed, the servicer's duties are ministerial: collecting payments, distributing payments to investors, managing cash and administering funds in escrow, and reporting to investors. When a loan is in default, the demands on the servicer necessarily expand, requiring additional resources and much more sophisticated risk management. A necessary consequence of the growth in foreclosures since 2007 is increased demands on servicers' foreclosure processes.

The residential mortgage-servicing market is highly concentrated among a few servicers. The five largest mortgage servicers by activity volume—including among the 14 servicers subject to the reviews addressed in this report—account for 60 percent of the industry's total servicing volume.⁷ The 14 servicers included in the interagency review collectively represent more than two-thirds of the servicing industry (see figure 1), or nearly 36.7 million mortgages.⁸

At the end of the fourth quarter of 2010, nearly 54 million first-lien mortgage loans were outstanding, 2.4 million of which were at some point in the foreclosure process. Additionally, two million mortgages were 90 or more days past due and at an elevated risk of foreclosure. New foreclosures are on pace to approach 2.5 million by the end of 2011. In light of the number of foreclosures and continued weakness in overall mortgage performance, the agencies are concerned that the deficiencies in foreclosure processing observed among these major servicers may have widespread consequences for the housing market and borrowers.

Impact on Borrowers

Weaknesses in foreclosure processes and controls present the risk of foreclosing with inaccurate documentation, or foreclosing when another intervening circumstance should intercede. Even if a foreclosure action can be completed properly, deficiencies can result (and have resulted) in violations of state foreclosure laws designed to protect consumers. Such weaknesses may also result in inaccurate fees and charges assessed against the borrower or property, which may make it more difficult for borrowers to bring their loans current. In addition, borrowers can find their loss-mitigation options curtailed because of dual-track processes that result in foreclosures even when a borrower has been approved for a loan modification. The risks presented by weaknesses in foreclosure processes are more acute when those processes are aimed at speed and quantity instead of quality and accuracy.

6 April 2011

Impact on the Industry and Investors

Weaknesses in foreclosure processes pose a variety of risks to the financial services industry and investors. These risks extend beyond the financial cost of remedying procedural errors and re-filing affidavits and other foreclosure documents. Servicers may also bear legal costs related to disputes over note ownership or authority to foreclose, and to allegations of procedural violations through the use of inaccurate affidavits and improper notarizations. Servicers may be subject to claims by investors as a result of delays or other damages caused by the weaknesses. Furthermore, concerns about the prevalence of irregularities in the documentation of ownership may cause uncertainty for investors of securitized mortgages. Servicers and their affiliates also face significant reputational risk with their borrowers, with the court system, and with regulators.

Impact on the Judicial Process

Weaknesses in foreclosure processes have resulted in increased demands on judicial resources to resolve a variety of foreclosure-related matters, including note ownership. In addition, courts rely extensively on affidavits (usually affidavits of indebtedness) submitted by servicers to decide foreclosure actions on a summary basis without requiring in-person testimony.⁹ If such affidavits were not properly prepared or executed, courts may lose confidence in the reliability of the affidavits as persuasive evidence filed on behalf of servicers.¹⁰

⁹ The basic affidavit of indebtedness typically sets forth the name of the party that owns the loan, the default status, and the amounts due for principal, interest, penalties (such as late charges), and fees. This affidavit is frequently the principal basis upon which a court is permitted to order a foreclosure without requiring in-person testimony. Similar documentation may be required in bankruptcy proceedings.

¹⁰ Mortgage foreclosures occur under either a judicial or a nonjudicial process. Judicial foreclosures are court-supervised and require the lender to bring a court action to foreclose. Nonjudicial foreclosures (also known as "power of sale") involve little or

Impact on the Mortgage Market and Communities

Weaknesses in foreclosure processes led several servicers to slow, halt, or suspend foreclosure proceedings in late 2010, and, in many cases, re-file foreclosure documents. Delays in foreclosure processing, which averaged 450 days in the fourth quarter of 2010, slow the clearing of excess inventory of foreclosed properties and lead to extended periods of depressed home prices.¹¹ Such delays also impede the efficient disposition of foreclosed homes and the clearing of seriously delinquent mortgages, particularly in geographic regions with greater concentrations of vacant and abandoned properties. This outcome acts as an impediment for communities working to stabilize local neighborhoods and housing markets.¹²

Moreover, local property values may be adversely affected if foreclosed homes remain vacant for extended periods, particularly if such homes are not properly maintained.¹³ Widely publicized weaknesses in foreclosure processes also adversely affect home buyer and investor confidence. Assuring robust and credible remedial programs for mortgage servicers so that foreclosure processes can operate and markets can clear without impediments or interventions contributes to attaining a stable national housing market.

no court oversight and generally are governed by state statutes. Even foreclosures that are instituted outside the judicial process can be challenged in court, however, and then become subject to court actions.

Part 2: Review Findings

The reviews found critical weaknesses in foreclosure governance processes, foreclosure document preparation processes, and oversight and monitoring of third-party law firms and other vendors. These weaknesses involve unsafe and unsound practices and violations of applicable federal and state laws and requirements, and they have had an adverse effect on the functioning of the mortgage markets. By emphasizing speed and cost efficiency over quality and accuracy, examined servicers fostered an operational environment contrary to safe and sound banking practices.

In connection with the reviews of sampled files and assessments of servicers' custodial activities, examiners found that borrowers whose files were reviewed were seriously delinquent on their mortgage payments at the time of foreclosure and that servicers generally had sufficient documentation available to demonstrate authority to foreclose on those borrowers' mortgages.¹⁴ Nevertheless, examiners noted instances where documentation in the foreclosure file alone may not have been sufficient to prove ownership of the note at the time the foreclosure action commenced without reference to additional information. When additional information was requested and provided to examiners, it generally was sufficient to determine ownership.

In addition, review of the foreclosure files showed that servicers were in contact with the delinquent borrowers and had considered loss-mitigation alternatives, including loan modifications. Examiners also noted a small number of foreclosure sales, however, that should not have proceeded because of an intervening event or condition, such as the borrower: (a) was covered by the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act, (b) filed bankruptcy shortly before the foreclosure action, or (c) was approved for a trial modification.

A summary of the major findings identified during the reviews is set forth below.

Foreclosure Process Governance

Examiners found governance at each examined servicer in need of substantial improvement, and often cited the absence of sound controls and ineffective management of foreclosure processes. Foreclosure policies and procedures at many of the servicers were either weak or needed substantial expansion to provide effective guidance, control, and ongoing monitoring. As noted above, examiners concluded that the majority of servicers reviewed had inadequate affidavit and notary-signing processes that did not ensure proper attestation (or verification) of the underlying documents.

Examiners found that most servicers had inadequate staffing levels and training programs throughout the foreclosure-processing function and that a large percentage of the staff lacked sufficient training in their positions. The reviews also revealed that all of the servicers relied heavily on outsourcing arrangements with outside counsel and other third-party vendors to carry out foreclosure processes without adequate oversight of those arrangements. Some servicers failed to enter into contracts with the foreclosure law firms performing critical steps in the foreclosure process, including affidavit- and notary-preparation and signing processes. Audit and quality-assurance controls and self-assessment reviews at all of the examined servicers lacked comprehensiveness and failed to identify specific weaknesses and process gaps. Details on these areas of weakness are included below.

¹⁴ As previously noted, examiners were limited to the documents in the foreclosure files. Those documents may not have disclosed certain facts that might have led examiners to conclude that a foreclosure should not have proceeded, such as misapplication of payments that could have precipitated a foreclosure action or oral communications between the borrower and servicer staff that were not documented in the foreclosure file.

8 April 2011

Organizational Structure and Availability of Staffing

At the time of the review, a majority of the servicers had inadequate staffing levels or had recently added staff with limited servicing experience. In most instances, servicers maintained insufficient staff to appropriately review documents for accuracy, and provided inadequate training for affidavit signers, notaries, and quality-control staff. Examiners also noted weak controls, undue emphasis on quantitative production and timelines, and inadequate workload monitoring.

Affidavit and Notarization Practices

Deficiencies in servicers' processes, procedures, controls, and staffing resulted in numerous inaccurate affidavits and other foreclosure-related documents. Examiners found that most servicers had affidavit signing protocols that expedited the processes for signing foreclosure affidavits without ensuring that the individuals who signed the affidavits personally conducted the review or possessed the level of knowledge of the information that they attested to in those affidavits. Examiners confirmed these deficiencies through interviews with individuals who signed documents, as well as through a review of servicers' self-assessments. Examiners also found the majority of the servicers had improper notary practices that failed to conform to state legal requirements. Examiners noted some servicers failed to maintain an accurate list of approved and acceptable notaries that individuals signing documents did not do so in the presence of a notary when required, and that documents often were executed in a manner contrary to the notary's acknowledgement and verification of those documents. In addition, some foreclosure documents indicated they were executed under oath when no oath was administered. Again, examiners confirmed these deficiencies by interviewing notaries and reviewing servicers' self-assessments.

At the examined servicers, anywhere from 100 to more than 25,000 foreclosure actions occurred per month between January 1, 2009, and December 31, 2010, with the quantity depending upon the size of the servicer's operations. It was common to find an insufficient number of staff assigned to review, sign, and notarize affidavits. At some of the servicers, examiners found that insufficient staff—or the lack of specified guidance to staff or external law firms on affidavit completion—contributed to the preparation and filing of inaccurate affidavits. In the sample of foreclosure files reviewed, examiners compared the accuracy of the amounts listed on affidavits of indebtedness to the documentation in the paper foreclosure file or computerized loan servicing systems. Although borrowers whose foreclosure files were reviewed were seriously in default at the time of the foreclosure action, some servicers failed to accurately complete or validate itemized amounts owed by those borrowers. At those servicers, this failure resulted in differences between the figures in the affidavit and the information in the servicing system or paper file. In nearly half of those instances, the differences—which were typically less than $500—were adverse to the borrower. While the error rates varied among the servicers, the percentage of errors at some servicers raises significant concerns regarding those servicers' internal controls governing foreclosure-related documentation.

Documentation Practices

During the foreclosure-file reviews, examiners compared the accuracy of amounts listed on the servicers' affidavits of indebtedness with documentation on file or maintained within the electronic servicing system of record. For most of the servicers, examiners cited the lack of a clear auditable trail in reconciling foreclosure filings to source systems of record. In some cases, examiners directed servicers to further audit foreclosure filings to verify the accuracy of information and compliance with legal requirements. Likewise, in connection with the file review, examiners also determined whether critical foreclosure documents were in the foreclosure files, and whether notes appeared properly endorsed and mortgages appeared properly assigned. Examiners noted instances where documentation in the foreclosure file alone may not have been sufficient to prove authority to foreclose without reference to additional information.¹⁵ When more information was requested and provided, it generally was sufficient to determine authority. With some exceptions, examiners found that notes appeared properly endorsed, and mortgages appeared properly assigned.¹⁶ Examiners also traveled to servicers' document repository locations to assess custodial activities. Examiners found that servicers generally had possession and control over critical loan documents such as the promissory notes and mortgages. The review did find that, in some cases prior to 2010, the third-party law firms hired by the servicers were nonetheless filing lost-note affidavits or mortgage foreclosure complaints in which they claimed that the mortgage note had either been lost or destroyed, even though proper documentation existed.

¹⁵ Servicers frequently maintained custody of original mortgage documents, although in some cases third-party trustees or custodians held original documents. Custodians are entrusted to manage the original documents that establish note ownership, and, when necessary, produce the original documents for a foreclosure action.

¹⁶ Only in rare instances were custodians unable to produce origi-

Third-party Vendor Management

The agencies found that the servicers reviewed generally did not properly structure, carefully conduct, or prudently manage their third-party vendor relationships with outside law firms and other third-party foreclosure services providers. Failure to effectively manage third-party vendors resulted in increased reputational, legal, and financial risks to the servicers.

Arrangements with Outside Law Firms

Servicers typically used third-party law firms to prepare affidavits and other legal documents, to file complaints and other pleadings with courts, and to litigate on their behalf in connection with foreclosure and foreclosure-related bankruptcy proceedings. The servicers reviewed generally showed insufficient guidance, policies, or procedures governing the initial selection, management, or termination of the law firms that handled their foreclosures. Many servicers, rather than conducting their own due diligence, relied on the fact that certain firms had been designated as approved or accepted by investors. Servicers often did not govern their relationships with these law firms by formal contracts. Instead, servicers frequently relied on informal engagements with law firms, at times relying on investors' business relationships with the law firms or the law firms' contractual relationships with default management service providers.

Inadequate Oversight

Servicers also did not provide adequate oversight of third-party vendor law firms, including monitoring for compliance with the servicers' standards. Several nal loan documentation, and in those instances the servicers generally were able to provide adequate explanations, including that copies in the possession of the custodian were acceptable under applicable law.

servicers exempted third-party law firms from the servicers' vendor management programs or did not identify them as third-party vendors subject to those programs. In some cases, servicers assumed that investors performed such oversight, in which case oversight was limited to ensuring that the law firms were on the investors' lists of approved or accepted providers. Where monitoring of law firms was conducted, it was often limited to things such as responsiveness and timeliness, checking for liability insurance, or determining if any power of attorney given to the firm remained valid rather than assessing the accuracy and adequacy of legal documents or compliance with state law or designated fee schedules.

Document Retention Weaknesses

Examiners also found that the servicers did not always retain originals or copies of the documents maintained by the third-party law firms that conducted their foreclosures. Instead, the servicers relied on the firms to maintain those documents. The absence of central and well-organized foreclosure files by the servicers and the consequent need for the examiners to collect foreclosure documentation derived from numerous sources made it difficult at times for examiners to conduct full foreclosure-file reviews while on-site.

Inadequate guidance, policies, procedures, and contracts

In addition, examiners generally found an absence of formal guidance, policies, or procedures governing the selection, ongoing management, and termination of law firms used to handle foreclosures. This deficiency resulted in a lack of clarity regarding roles, responsibilities, and performance parameters. Examiners also observed an absence of written contracts between certain servicers and law firms, which left those servicers with no contractual recourse for liability against the firms for performance issues. These deficiencies, coupled with the overall lack of adequate oversight, contributed to instances in which servicers and law firms failed to identify problems with the firms' foreclosure practices, thereby exposing the servicers to a variety of significant risks.

Those problems include instances in which law firms signed documents on behalf of servicers without having the authority to do so, or they changed the format and content of affidavits without the knowledge of the servicers. These defects could, depending upon the circumstances, raise concerns regarding the legality and propriety of the foreclosure even if the servicer had sufficient documentation available to demonstrate authority to foreclose.

Arrangements with Default Management Service Providers (DMSPs)

In connection with the on-site reviews of servicers, the agencies also conducted an on-site review of Lender Processing Services, Inc. (LPS), which provides significant services to support mortgage-servicing and foreclosure processing across the industry. The review of LPS involved a number of issues that are similar to those raised in the reviews of the servicers, and the LPS review covered issues that are unique to the operations, structure and corporate governance of LPS. During the review of LPS, the agencies found deficient practices related primarily to the document execution services that LPS, through its DocX, LLC, and LPS Default Solutions, Inc. subsidiaries had provided to servicers in connection with foreclosures. To address these issues, the agencies are taking formal enforcement action against LPS under section 7(d) of the Bank Service Company Act, 12 USC § 1867(d), and section 8(b) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, 12 USC § 1818(b).

Inadequate Contracts

During the review of servicers, examiners assessed servicers' relationships with third-party vendor DMSPs, focusing primarily on DMSPs that supported the execution of foreclosure-related documents, such as affidavits of indebtedness, lost-note affidavits, and assignments of mortgages.¹⁷ Examiners found that contracts between the servicers and DMSPs generally were inadequate, often omitting significant matters such as service-level agreements. Contracts did not provide for an appropriate level of oversight of third-party vendor law firms in situations where the servicers relied on the DMSPs to conduct such oversight.

Inadequate Oversight

Examiners also observed that servicers generally demonstrated an overall lack of adequate oversight of DMSPs. At times, the servicers failed to identify DMSPs as vendors subject to the servicers' vendor management programs and demonstrated an inability to provide the examiners with sufficient evidence of due diligence. Examiners found no evidence that servicers conducted audits of the document execution operations of their DMSPs.

¹⁷ Not all of the servicers engaged the services of third-party vendor DMSPs to perform document execution services.

The lack of sufficient oversight of DMSPs, coupled with the contractual deficiencies, led to instances in which employees of those DMSPs signed foreclosure affidavits without personally conducting the review or possessing the level of knowledge of information that they attested to in those affidavits. Employees of DMSPs, like the employees of the servicers themselves, executed documents in a manner contrary to the notary's acknowledgement and verification of those documents. In addition, in limited instances, employees of DMSPs signed foreclosure-related documents on behalf of servicers without proper authority. Because some of the servicers relied on DMSPs to oversee their third-party vendor law firms, the contractual deficiencies and lack of oversight of DMSPs contributed to the weaknesses identified above regarding the oversight of third-party vendor law firms.

Arrangements with Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems, Inc.

In connection with the on-site reviews of servicers, the agencies, together with the Federal Housing Finance Agency (FHFA), also conducted an on-site review of MERSCORP and its wholly owned subsidiary, Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems, Inc. (collectively, MERS), which, as detailed below, provides significant services to support mortgage-servicing and foreclosure processing across the industry. The review of MERS involved a number of issues that are similar to those raised in the reviews of the servicers, and the MERS review covered issues that are unique to the operations, structure and corporate governance of MERS. During the review of MERS, the agencies and FHFA found significant weaknesses in, among other things, oversight, management supervision and corporate governance. To address these issues, the agencies, together with FHFA, are taking formal enforcement action against MERS under section 7(d) of the Bank Service Company Act, 12 USC § 1867(d), and section 8(b) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, 12 USC § 1818(b).

MERS streamlines the mortgage recording and assignment process in two ways. First, it operates a centralized computer database or registry of mortgages that tracks the servicing rights and the beneficial ownership of the mortgage note. Each mortgage registered in the database is assigned a Mortgage Identification Number (MIN). Second, MERS can be designated by a member (and its subsequent assignees) to serve in a nominee capacity as the mortgage of record in public land records. Designating MERS as the mortgagee is intended to eliminate the need to prepare and record successive assignments of mortgages each time ownership of a mortgage is transferred. Rather, changes in beneficial ownership of the mortgage note (and servicing rights) are tracked in the MERS registry using the MIN.¹⁸ All of the examined servicers had relationships with MERS.

Inadequate Oversight

Servicers exercised varying levels of oversight of the MERS relationship, but none to a sufficient degree. Several of the servicers did not include MERS in their vendor management programs. In these instances, the servicers failed to conduct appropriate due diligence assessments and failed to monitor, evaluate, and appropriately manage the MERS contractual relationship. Deficiencies included failure to assess the internal control processes at MERS, failure to ensure the accuracy of servicing transfers, and failure to ensure that servicers' records matched MERS' records.

Inadequate Quality Control

Examiners also determined that servicers' quality-control processes pertaining to MERS were insufficient. In some cases, servicers lacked any quality-assurance processes and relied instead on the infrequent and limited audits that MERS periodically conducted. Other deficiencies included the failure to conduct audit reviews to independently verify the adequacy of and adherence to quality-assurance processes by MERS, and the need for more frequent and complete reconciliation between the servicers' systems and the MERS registry. Several servicers did not include MERS activities in the scope of their audit coverage.

Ineffective Quality Control (QC) and Audit

Examiners found weaknesses in quality-control procedures at all servicers, which resulted in servicers not performing one or more of the following functions at a satisfactory level:

- ensuring accurate foreclosure documentation, including documentation pertaining to the fees assessed;
- incorporating mortgage-servicing activities into the servicers' loan-level monitoring, testing, and validation programs;
- evaluating and testing compliance with applicable laws and regulations, court orders, pooling and servicing agreements, and similar contractual arrangements; and
- ensuring proper controls to prevent foreclosures when intervening events or conditions occur that warrant stopping the foreclosure process (e.g., bankruptcy proceedings, applicability of the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act, or adherence to a trial or permanent loan modification program).

Examiners also found weaknesses in internal auditing procedures at all the servicers included in the review. When performed, the few internal audits conducted by servicers failed to identify fundamental control issues that led to the foreclosure process breakdowns. Failures to perform internal audits effectively resulted in servicers' inability to identify, address, and internally communicate foreclosure-processing risks. The failures to identify and communicate these risks resulted in servicers not strengthening the quality of risk-management processes to a level consistent with the nature, increasing size, and complexity of the servicer's foreclosure activities. Moreover, failure to conduct comprehensive audits to identify weaknesses in foreclosure processes resulted in servicers not taking sufficient corrective action to strengthen policy and procedural gaps, increase staffing levels, and improve training in response to sharply rising foreclosure volumes prior to the agencies' foreclosure reviews. The failure to identify the risks associated with foreclosure processing also resulted in servicers not taking action to improve foreclosure documentation-related processes ranging from custody and control of documents to proper notarization processes, or to enhance oversight of third parties managing foreclosure activities on their behalf.

¹⁸ While MERS maintains a registry of the beneficial ownership of the mortgage note, this registry is not a system of legal record. The ownership of the note is determined by the Uniform Commercial Code, and, if a change in ownership of a note is not recorded in MERS or is recorded incorrectly, the transfer is still valid.

Part 3: Supervisory Response

At this time, the agencies are taking formal enforcement actions against each of the 14 servicers under the authority of section 8(b) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, 12 USC § 1818(b). The deficiencies and weaknesses identified by examiners during their reviews involved unsafe or unsound practices and violations of law, which have had an adverse impact on the functioning of the mortgage markets. Furthermore, the mortgage servicers' deficient foreclosure processes confirmed during the reviews have compromised the public trust and confidence in mortgage servicing and have consequences for the housing market and borrowers. The formal enforcement actions will require servicers, among other things, to:

- Compliance program: Establish a compliance program to ensure mortgage-servicing and foreclosure operations, including loss mitigation and loan modification, comply with all applicable legal requirements and supervisory guidance, and assure appropriate policies and procedures, staffing, training, oversight, and quality control of those processes.
- Foreclosure review: Retain an independent firm to conduct a review of residential foreclosure actions that were pending at any time from January 1, 2009, through December 31, 2010, to determine any financial injury to borrowers caused by errors, misrepresentations, or other deficiencies identified in the review, and to remediate, as appropriate, those deficiencies.
- Dedicated resources for communicating with borrowers/single point of contact: Ensure the following: effective coordination of communication with borrowers related to foreclosure, loss mitigation, and loan modification activities; assurance that communications are timely and appropriate and designed to avoid borrower confusion; continuity in the handling of borrower cases during the loan modification and foreclosure processes; reasonable and good faith efforts, consistent with applicable law and contracts, to engage in loss mitigation and foreclosure prevention for delinquent loans where appropriate; and assurances that decisions concerning loss mitigation or loan modifications will be made and communicated in a timely manner.

- Third-party management: Establish policies and procedures for outsourcing foreclosure or related functions to ensure appropriate oversight and that activities comply with all applicable legal requirements, supervisory guidance, and the servicer's policies and procedures, including the appropriate selection and oversight of all third-party service providers, including external legal counsel, DMSPs, and MERS.
- Management information systems: Improve management information systems for foreclosure, loss mitigation, and loan modification activities that ensure timely delivery of complete and accurate information to facilitate effective decision making.
- Risk assessment: Retain an independent firm to conduct a written, comprehensive assessment of risks in servicing operations, particularly in the areas of foreclosure, loss mitigation, and the administration and disposition of other real estate owned, including but not limited to operational, compliance, transaction, legal, and reputational risks.

In addition to the actions against the servicers, the Federal Reserve and the OTS have issued formal enforcement actions against the parent holding companies to require that they enhance on a consolidated basis their oversight of mortgage-servicing activities, including compliance, risk management, and audit.

The agencies will monitor and assess, on an ongoing basis, the corrective actions taken by the servicers and holding companies that are required by the enforcement actions and take further action, when necessary, to address failures. Enforcement actions and more frequent monitoring will remain in place at each servicer until that servicer has demonstrated that its weaknesses and deficiencies have been corrected, including that adequate policies, procedures, and controls are in place. The agencies will continue to explore ways to improve their supervisory frameworks to identify more promptly and effectively the potential risks in mortgage-servicing and other banking operations.

Part 4: Industry Reforms

Financial regulatory agencies are developing standards within their authority to improve the transparency, oversight, and regulation of mortgage-servicing and foreclosure processing and to set additional thresholds for responsible management and operation of mortgage-servicing activities. Moreover, a uniform set of national mortgage-servicing and foreclosure-processing standards would help promote accountability and appropriateness in dealing with consumers and strengthen the housing finance market.

Industry reforms that could improve the oversight and regulation of mortgage-servicing and foreclosure processing should generally include standards that require servicers to address major areas of weaknesses highlighted in the review, including in the following general areas:

Governance and Oversight

- implement and routinely audit sound enterprise-wide policies and procedures to govern and control mortgage-servicing and foreclosure processes
- develop quality controls for effective management of third-party vendors who support mortgage-servicing and foreclosure processing
- strengthen the governance standards intended to ensure compliance with applicable federal and state laws and company policies and procedures
- develop company standards that emphasize accuracy and quality in the processing and validation of foreclosure and other servicing-related documents throughout the entire foreclosure process

Organizational Structure, Staffing, and Technology

- increase staffing to adequate levels and provide them with requisite training to effectively manage the volume of default loans and foreclosures
- upgrade information systems and practices to better store, track, and retrieve mortgage-related documents

Accountability and Responsiveness Dealing with Consumers

- ensure borrowers are offered appropriate loss-mitigation options
- ensure proper custody and control of borrower documents related to the servicing of the mortgage
- increase coordination between loss mitigation and foreclosure-processing units to prevent inappropriate foreclosures
- improve communication with borrowers and establish measurable goals and incentives for delivering accurate information and responsive assistance
- develop complaint-resolution processes that are routinely monitored and measured for quality assurance

CONSENT ORDER

WHEREAS, Ally Financial Inc., Detroit, Michigan (“Ally Financial”), a registered bank holding company, indirectly owns and controls Ally Bank (f/k/a GMAC Bank), Midvale, Utah, a state nonmember bank, and numerous direct and indirect nonbank subsidiaries, including Residential Capital, LLC, Minneapolis, Minnesota (“ResCap”), and its direct and indirect subsidiaries, including GMAC Mortgage, LLC, Fort Washington, Pennsylvania (“GMAC Mortgage”), and its subsidiaries. Ally Financial, f/k/a GMAC LLC, became a bank holding company on December 24, 2008, following approval by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (the “Board of Governors”) pursuant to section 3(a)(1) of the Bank Holding Company Act (12 U.S.C. § 1842(a)(1)), and conversion of Ally Bank from an industrial loan company to a state-chartered insured nonmember bank;

WHEREAS, Ally Financial engages in the business of servicing residential mortgage loans through various indirect subsidiaries, including GMAC Mortgage and its subsidiaries (collectively, the “Mortgage Servicing Companies”). The Mortgage Servicing Companies service residential mortgage loans that are held in the portfolios of (a) Ally Bank and GMAC Mortgage; (b) the Federal National Mortgage Association, the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation, and the Government National Mortgage Association (collectively, the “GSEs”); and (c) various investors, including securitization trusts pursuant to Pooling and Servicing Agreements and similar agreements (collectively, the “Servicing Portfolio”). The Mortgage Servicing Companies have substantial responsibilities with respect to the Servicing Portfolio for the initiation and handling of foreclosure proceedings, and loss mitigation activities (“Loss Mitigation” or “Loss Mitigation Activities” include activities related to special forbearances, repayment plans, modifications, short refinances, short sales, cash-for-keys, and deeds-in-lieu of foreclosure);

WHEREAS, Ally Bank has entered into agreements with the Mortgage Servicing Companies with respect to the servicing of residential mortgage loans owned by Ally Bank, as well as sub-servicing agreements with respect to loans where Ally Bank retained servicing rights;

WHEREAS, the Mortgage Servicing Companies collectively are the fifth largest servicer of residential mortgages in the United States and service a portfolio of 2.5 million residential mortgage loans. During the recent financial crisis, a substantially larger number of residential mortgage loans became past due than in earlier years. Many of the past due mortgages have resulted in foreclosure actions. From January 1, 2009 to December 31, 2010, the Mortgage Servicing Companies completed 89,998 foreclosure actions, representing less than 4 percent of the Servicing Portfolio over such time period;

WHEREAS, in connection with the process leading to certain foreclosures involving the Servicing Portfolio, the Mortgage Servicing Companies allegedly:

- (a) Filed or caused to be filed in state courts and in connection with bankruptcy proceedings in federal courts numerous affidavits executed by employees of the Mortgage Servicing Companies or employees of third-party providers making various assertions, such as the ownership of the mortgage note and mortgage, the amount of principal and interest due, and the fees and expenses chargeable to the borrower, in which the affiant represented that the assertions in the affidavit were made based on personal knowledge or based on a review by the affiant of the relevant books and records, when, in many cases, they were not based on such knowledge or review;
- (b) Filed or caused to be filed in courts in various states and in connection with bankruptcy proceedings in federal courts or in the local land record offices, numerous affidavits and other mortgage-related documents that were not properly notarized, including those not signed or affirmed in the presence of a notary;
- (c) Litigated foreclosure and bankruptcy proceedings and initiated non-judicial foreclosures without always confirming that documentation of ownership was in order at the appropriate time, including confirming that the promissory note and mortgage document were properly endorsed or assigned and, if necessary, in the possession of the appropriate party;

- (d) Failed to respond in a sufficient and timely manner to the increased level of foreclosures by increasing financial, staffing, and managerial resources to ensure that the Mortgage Servicing Companies adequately handled the foreclosure process; and failed to respond in a sufficient and timely manner to the increased level of Loss Mitigation Activities to ensure timely, effective and efficient communication with borrowers with respect to Loss Mitigation Activities and foreclosure activities; and
- (e) Failed to have adequate internal controls, policies and procedures, compliance risk management, internal audit, training, and oversight of the foreclosure process, including sufficient oversight of outside counsel and other third-party providers handling foreclosure-related services with respect to the Servicing Portfolio.

WHEREAS, the practices set forth above allegedly constitute unsafe or unsound banking practices;

WHEREAS, as part of a horizontal review of various major residential mortgage servicers conducted by the Board of Governors, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (the "FDIC"), the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, and the Office of Thrift Supervision, examiners from the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago (the "Reserve Bank") and the FDIC have reviewed foreclosure-related processes at the Mortgage Servicing Companies;

WHEREAS, it is the common goal of the Board of Governors, the Reserve Bank, Ally Financial, ResCap, and the Mortgage Servicing Companies to ensure that the Mortgage Servicing Companies operate in a safe and sound manner and in compliance with the terms of mortgage loan documentation and related agreements with borrowers, all applicable state and federal laws (including the U.S. Bankruptcy Code and the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act), rules, regulations, and court orders, as well as the Membership Rules of MERSCORP, Inc. and

MERS, Inc. (collectively, "MERS"), servicing guides with GSEs or investors, and other contractual obligations, including those with the Federal Housing Administration and those required by the Home Affordable Modification Program ("HAMP"), and loss share agreements with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (collectively, "Legal Requirements");

WHEREAS, it is the common goal of the FDIC and Ally Bank to ensure that the residential mortgages owned or serviced by Ally Bank are serviced or sub-serviced in a safe and sound manner and in compliance with all Legal Requirements;

WHEREAS, after the conduct set forth above became known, Ally Financial, Ally Bank, ResCap, and the Mortgage Servicing Companies have been taking steps to remediate the filing of and reliance on inaccurate affidavits in foreclosure and bankruptcy proceedings;

WHEREAS, the boards of directors of Ally Financial, ResCap, and GMAC Mortgage, at duly constituted meetings, adopted resolutions authorizing and directing Michael A. Carpenter, Thomas Marano, and Steven M. Abreu to enter into this Consent Order to Cease and Desist (the "Order") on behalf of Ally Financial, ResCap, and GMAC Mortgage, respectively, and consenting to compliance with each and every applicable provision of this Order by Ally Financial, ResCap, and GMAC Mortgage, and their institution-affiliated parties, as defined in sections 3(u) and 8(b)(3) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, as amended (the "FDI Act") (12 U.S.C. §§ 1813(u) and 1818(b)(3)), and waiving any and all rights that Ally Financial, ResCap, and GMAC Mortgage may have pursuant to section 8 of the FDI Act (12 U.S.C. § 1818), including, but not limited to: (i) the issuance of a notice of charges; (ii) a hearing for the purpose of taking evidence on any matters set forth in this Order; (iii) judicial review of this Order; (iv) contest the issuance of this Order by the Board of Governors; and (v) challenge or contest, in any manner, the basis, issuance, validity, terms, effectiveness or enforceability of this Order or any provision hereof; and

WHEREAS, the board of directors of Ally Bank, at a duly constituted meeting adopted a resolution authorizing and directing Mark B. Hales to enter into this Order on behalf of Ally Bank and consenting to compliance with each and every applicable provision of this Order by Ally Bank and its institution-affiliated parties, as defined in section 3(u) of the FDI Act, and waiving any and all rights that Ally Bank may have pursuant to section 8 of the FDI Act, including, but not limited to: (i) the issuance of a notice of charges; (ii) a hearing for the purpose of taking evidence on any matters set forth in this Order; (iii) judicial review of this Order; (iv) contest the issuance of this Order by the FDIC; and (v) challenge or contest, in any manner, the basis, issuance, validity, terms, effectiveness or enforceability of this Order or any provision hereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, before the filing of any notices, or taking of any testimony or adjudication of or finding on any issues of fact or law herein, and without this Order constituting an admission by Ally Financial, Ally Bank, ResCap, or GMAC Mortgage or its subsidiaries of any allegation made or implied by the Board of Governors or the FDIC in connection with this matter, and solely for the purpose of settling this matter without a formal proceeding being filed and without the necessity for protracted or extended hearings or testimony, it is hereby ordered by the Board of Governors that, pursuant to sections 8(b)(1) and (3) of the FDI Act (12 U.S.C. §§1818(b)(1) and 1818(b)(3)), Ally Financial, ResCap, GMAC Mortgage, and their institution-affiliated parties shall cease and desist and take affirmative action, and it is hereby ordered by the FDIC that, pursuant to section 8(b)(1) of the FDI Act (12 U.S.C. §§1818(b)(1)), Ally Bank and its institution-affiliated parties, shall cease and desist and take affirmative action, as follows:

Source of Strength

1. The board of directors of Ally Financial shall take appropriate steps to fully utilize Ally Financial's financial and managerial resources, pursuant to section 225.4(a) of Regulation Y of the Board of Governors (12 C.F.R. § 225.4(a)), to serve as a source of strength to Ally Bank, including, but not limited to, taking steps to ensure that Ally Bank complies with the applicable provisions of this Order that is issued by the FDIC.

Board Oversight

2. Within 60 days of this Order, the boards of directors of Ally Financial and ResCap, for itself and on behalf of the Mortgage Servicing Companies shall submit to the Reserve Bank an acceptable written plan to strengthen the boards' oversight of the Mortgage Servicing Companies, including the boards' oversight of risk management, internal audit, and compliance programs concerning residential mortgage loan servicing, Loss Mitigation, and foreclosure activities conducted by the Mortgage Servicing Companies. The plan shall also describe the actions that the boards of directors will take to improve the Mortgage Servicing Companies' residential mortgage loan servicing, Loss Mitigation, and foreclosure activities and operations, and a timeline for actions to be taken. The plan shall, at a minimum, address, consider, and include:

(a) Policies to be adopted by the board of directors of Ally Financial that are designed to ensure that Ally Financial's enterprise-wide risk management ("ERM") program provides proper risk management with respect to the Mortgage Servicing Companies' residential mortgage loan servicing, Loss Mitigation, and foreclosure activities particularly with respect to compliance with the Legal Requirements, and supervisory standards and guidance of the Board of Governors as they develop;

(b) policies and procedures adopted by Ally Financial to ensure that the ERM program provides proper risk management of independent contractors, consulting firms, law firms, or other third parties who are engaged to support residential mortgage loan servicing, Loss Mitigation, or foreclosure activities or operations, including their compliance with the Legal Requirements and Ally Financial's and GMAC Mortgage's internal policies and procedures, consistent with supervisory guidance of the Board of Governors;

(c) steps to ensure that Ally Financial's ERM, audit, and compliance programs have adequate levels and types of officers and staff dedicated to overseeing the Mortgage Servicing Companies' residential mortgage loan servicing, Loss Mitigation, and foreclosure activities, and that these programs have officers and staff with the requisite qualifications, skills, and ability to comply with the requirements of this Order;

(d) steps to improve the information and reports that will be regularly reviewed by the board of directors or authorized committee of the board of directors of Ally Financial regarding residential mortgage loan servicing, Loss Mitigation, and foreclosure activities and operations, including, compliance risk assessments, and the status and results of measures taken, or to be taken, to remediate deficiencies in residential mortgage loan servicing, Loss Mitigation, and foreclosure activities, and to comply with this Order;

(e) funding for personnel, systems, and other resources as are needed to carry out the Mortgage Servicing Companies' residential mortgage loan servicing, Loss Mitigation, and foreclosure activities and operations in full compliance with the Legal Requirements and the requirements of this Order, taking into consideration the current and expected volume of past due loans;

(f) funding for personnel, systems, and other resources as are needed to operate risk management and compliance programs that are safe and sound and that are commensurate with the risk profile of the Mortgage Servicing Companies;

(g) steps to ensure that the Mortgage Servicing Companies have adequate levels and types of officers and staff to carry out residential mortgage loan servicing, Loss Mitigation, and foreclosure activities in compliance with Legal Requirements and the requirements of this Order, and taking into account the size and complexity of the Servicing Portfolio; that they have officers and staff with the requisite qualifications, skills, and ability to comply with the requirements of this Order; and a timetable for hiring any necessary additional officers and staff.

(h) periodic reviews of the adequacy of the levels and types of officers and staff to carry out residential mortgage loan servicing, Loss Mitigation, and foreclosure activities in light of changes in the Servicing Portfolio or the Legal Requirements. To conduct this review, the plan shall establish metrics to measure and ensure the adequacy of staffing levels relative to existing and future Loss Mitigation and foreclosure activities, such as limits for the number of loans assigned to a Loss Mitigation employee, including the single point of contact as hereinafter defined, and deadlines to review loan modification documentation, make loan modification decisions, and provide responses to borrowers;

(i) steps to ensure that the risk management, audit, and compliance programs for the Mortgage Servicing Companies have adequate levels and types of officers and staff and that they have officers and staff with the requisite qualifications, skills, and ability to comply with the requirements of this Order, and a timetable for hiring any necessary additional officers and staff;

(j) workload reviews of residential mortgage loan servicing, Loss Mitigation, and foreclosure personnel who are responsible for handling individual loan issues (including single point of contact personnel), including an initial review within 90 days of this Order, and then annual reviews thereafter. Such reviews, at a minimum, shall assess whether the workload levels are appropriate to ensure compliance with the requirements of paragraphs 2(g) and 5 of this Order. Promptly following completion of such reviews, the Mortgage Servicing Companies shall adjust workload levels to ensure compliance with the requirements of paragraphs 2(g) and 5 of this Order;

(k) policies to ensure that the risk management, audit, and compliance programs have the requisite authorities and status within the organization to effectively operate the programs, and that there is adequate coordination with respect to these programs to ensure that any problems or deficiencies that are identified in the Mortgage Servicing Companies' residential mortgage loan servicing, Loss Mitigation, and foreclosure activities and operations are comprehensively reviewed and remedied; and

(l) steps to improve the information and reports that will be regularly reviewed by Ally Financial's and ResCap's boards of directors to assess the performance of residential mortgage loan servicing, Loss Mitigation, and foreclosure activities and operations, as well as the risk management and compliance programs and associated functions including, compliance risk assessments, and the status and results of measures taken, or to be taken, to remediate mortgage servicing, Loss Mitigation, and foreclosure deficiencies, and to comply with this Order.

Foreclosure Review

3. (a) Within 45 days of this Order, GMAC Mortgage shall retain one or more independent consultant(s) acceptable to the Reserve Bank to conduct an independent review of certain residential mortgage foreclosure actions (including judicial and non-judicial foreclosures and related bankruptcy proceedings, and other related litigation) regarding individual borrowers with respect to the Servicing Portfolio. The review shall include actions or proceedings (including foreclosures that were in process or completed) for loans serviced by the Mortgage Servicing Companies, whether brought in the name of the Ally Bank, the Mortgage Servicing Companies, the investor, or any agent for the mortgage note holder (including MERS) that have been pending at any time from January 1, 2009 to December 31, 2010, as well as residential foreclosure sales that occurred during this time period ("Foreclosure Review"). The purpose of the Foreclosure Review shall be to determine, at a minimum:

(i) whether, at the time the foreclosure action was initiated or the pleading or affidavit filed (including in bankruptcy proceedings and in defending suits brought by borrowers), the foreclosing party or agent of the party had properly documented ownership of the promissory note and mortgage (or deed of trust) under relevant state law, or was otherwise a proper party to the action as a result of agency or other similar status;

(ii) whether the foreclosure was in accordance with applicable state and federal laws, including but not limited to, the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act and the U.S. Bankruptcy Code;

(iii) whether, with respect to non-judicial foreclosures, the procedures followed with respect to the foreclosure sale (including the calculation of the default period, the amounts due, and compliance with notice periods) and post-sale confirmation were in accordance with the terms of the mortgage loan and state law requirements;

(iv) whether a foreclosure sale occurred when the borrower had requested a loan modification or other loss mitigation and the request was under consideration; when the loan was performing in accordance with a trial or permanent loan modification; or when the loan had not been in default for a sufficient period to authorize foreclosure pursuant to terms of the mortgage loan documentation and related agreements;

(v) whether any delinquent borrower's account was charged fees or penalties that were not permissible under the terms of the borrower's loan documents, state or federal law, or were otherwise unreasonable. For purposes of this Order, a fee or penalty is "otherwise unreasonable" if it was assessed: (i) for the purpose of protecting the secured party's interest in the mortgaged property, and the fee or penalty was assessed at a frequency or rate, was of a type or amount, or was for a purpose that was in fact not needed to protect the secured party's interest; (ii) for services performed and the fee charged was substantially in excess of the fair market value of the service; (iii) for services performed, and the services were not actually performed; or (iv) at an amount or rate that exceeds what is customarily charged in the market for such a fee or penalty, and the mortgage instruments or other documents executed by the borrower did not disclose the amount or rate that the lender or servicer would charge for such a fee or penalty;

(vi) whether Loss Mitigation Activities with respect to foreclosed loans were handled in accordance with the requirements of HAMP, if applicable, and consistent with the policies and procedures applicable to the Mortgage Servicing Companies' proprietary loan modifications or other Loss Mitigation programs, such that each borrower had an adequate opportunity to apply for a Loss Mitigation option or program, any such application was handled appropriately, and a final decision was made on a reasoned basis and was communicated to the borrower before the foreclosure sale; and

(vii) whether any errors, misrepresentations, or other deficiencies identified in the Foreclosure Review resulted in financial injury to the borrower or the owner of the mortgage loan.

(b) The independent consultant(s) shall prepare a written report detailing the findings of the Foreclosure Review (the "Foreclosure Report"). GMAC Mortgage shall provide to the Reserve Bank a copy of the Foreclosure Report at the same time that the report is provided to it. Simultaneously, a copy of the portion of the Foreclosure Report that addresses Ally Bank's Servicing Portfolio shall be furnished to Ally Bank and the FDIC.

(c) Within 45 days of receipt of the Foreclosure Report, GMAC Mortgage shall submit to the Reserve Bank an acceptable plan to:

(i) remediate, as appropriate, errors, misrepresentations, or other deficiencies in any foreclosure filing or other proceeding;

(ii) reimburse or otherwise provide appropriate remediation to the borrower for any impermissible or otherwise unreasonable penalties, fees or expenses, or for other financial injury identified in paragraph 3 of this Order;

(iii) make appropriate adjustments for the account of Ally Bank, the GSEs, or any investor; and

(iv) take appropriate steps to remediate any foreclosure sale where the foreclosure was not authorized as described in paragraph 3.

(d) Within 60 days after the Reserve Bank accepts the plan described in paragraph 3(c), the Mortgage Servicing Companies shall make all reimbursement and remediation payments and provide all credits required by such plan, and provide the Reserve Bank with a report detailing such payments and credits.

4. Within 15 days of the engagement of the independent consultant(s) described in paragraph 3 of this Order, but prior to the commencement of the Foreclosure Review, GMAC Mortgage shall submit to the Reserve Bank for approval an engagement letter that sets forth:

(a) The methodology for conducting the Foreclosure Review, including:

(i) a description of the information systems and documents to be reviewed, including the selection criteria for cases to be reviewed; (ii) the criteria for evaluating the reasonableness of fees and penalties under paragraph 3(a)(v); (iii) other procedures necessary to make the required determinations (such as through interviews of employees and third parties and a process for the receipt and review of borrower claims and complaints); and (iv) any proposed sampling techniques. In setting the scope and review methodology, the independent consultant may consider any work already done by Ally Financial, GMAC Mortgage, or other third-parties on behalf of Ally Financial or GMAC Mortgage. With respect to sampling techniques, the engagement letter shall contain a full description of the statistical basis for the sampling methods chosen, as well as procedures to increase the size of the sample depending on the results of initial sampling;

(b) the expertise and resources to be dedicated to the Foreclosure Review;

(c) completion of the Foreclosure Review and the Foreclosure Report within 120 days of the start of the engagement; and

(d) a written commitment that any workpapers associated with the Foreclosure Review will be made available to the Reserve Bank upon request.

Single Point of Contact

5. Within 60 days of this Order, GMAC Mortgage shall submit to the Reserve Bank an acceptable plan, along with a timeline for actions to be taken, for strengthening coordination of communications between the Mortgage Servicing Companies and borrowers, both oral and written, related to Loss Mitigation and foreclosure activities to ensure: (i) that communications are timely and effective, and are designed to avoid confusion to borrowers; (ii) continuity in the handling of borrowers' loan files during the Loss Mitigation and foreclosure processes by personnel knowledgeable about the borrower's situation; and (iii) that decisions concerning Loss Mitigation options or programs continue to be made and communicated in a timely fashion. Prior to submitting the plan, the Mortgage Servicing Companies shall conduct a review to determine: (i) whether processes involving past due mortgage loans or foreclosures overlap in such a way that they may impair or impede a borrower's efforts to effectively pursue a Loss Mitigation option or program, and (ii) that employee incentive compensation practices do not discourage Loss Mitigation. The plan shall, at a minimum, provide for:

(a) Measures to ensure that staff processing a borrower's Loss Mitigation request routinely communicates and coordinates with staff processing the foreclosure on the borrower's property;

(b) appropriate deadlines for responses to borrower communications and requests for consideration of Loss Mitigation, including deadlines for decisionmaking on Loss Mitigation Activities, with the metrics established not being less responsive than the timelines in HAMP;

(c) establishment of an accessible and reliable single point of contact for the borrower so that the borrower has access to an employee of the Mortgage Servicing Companies to obtain information throughout the Loss Mitigation and foreclosure processes;

(d) a requirement that written communications with the borrower identify by name the primary single point of contact along with one or more direct means of communication with the primary single point of contact, together with information about secondary points of contact in the event that the primary single point of contact is unavailable;

(e) measures to ensure that the single point of contact has access to current information and personnel (in-house or third-party) sufficient to timely, accurately, and adequately inform the borrower of the current status of the Loss Mitigation and foreclosure activities;

(f) procedures and controls to ensure that a final decision regarding a borrower's Loss Mitigation request (whether on a trial or permanent basis) is made and communicated to the borrower in writing, including the reason(s) why the borrower did not qualify for the trial or permanent modification and, if applicable, the net present value calculations utilized by the Mortgage Servicing Companies, and that involve the single point of contact within a reasonable time before any foreclosure sale occurs;

(g) procedures and controls to ensure that when the borrower's loan has been approved for modification on a trial or permanent basis, (i) no foreclosure or further legal action predicate to foreclosure occurs, unless the borrower is past due on two or more payments post-dating the trial or permanent modification; and (ii) the single point of contact remains available to the borrower and continues to be referenced on all written communications with the borrower;

(h) policies and procedures to enable borrowers to make complaints regarding the Loss Mitigation process, denial of Loss Mitigation requests, the foreclosure process, or foreclosure activities that prevent a borrower from pursuing Loss Mitigation options, and a process for making borrowers aware of the complaint procedures;

(i) procedures for the prompt review, escalation, and resolution of borrower complaints, including a process to communicate the results of the review to the borrower on a timely basis;

(j) policies and procedures to consider loan modification or other Loss Mitigation Activities with respect to junior lien loans owned by Ally Financial, ResCap, the Mortgage Servicing Companies, or Ally Bank where the Mortgage Servicing Companies service the associated first lien mortgage and become aware that such first lien mortgage is delinquent or has been modified;

(k) policies and procedures to ensure that timely information about Loss Mitigation options is sent to the borrower in the event of a delinquency or default, including plain language notices about the pendency of loan modification and foreclosure proceedings; and

(l) policies and procedures to ensure that foreclosure and related documents provided to borrowers and third parties are appropriately maintained and tracked, and that borrowers generally will not be required to resubmit the same documented information that has already been provided, and that borrowers are notified promptly of the need for additional information.

Third Party Management

6. Within 60 days of this Order, GMAC Mortgage shall submit to the Reserve Bank acceptable policies and procedures for the outsourcing of any residential mortgage loan servicing, Loss Mitigation, or foreclosure functions, by the Mortgage Servicing Companies to any independent contractor, consulting firm, law firm, property manager, or other third party (including any subsidiary or affiliate of Ally Financial) (collectively, "Third-Party Providers"). Third-Party Providers include local counsel in foreclosure or bankruptcy proceedings retained to represent the interests of owners of mortgages in the Servicing Portfolio ("Foreclosure Counsel"). The policies and procedures shall, at a minimum, address, consider, and include:

(a) Appropriate oversight of Third-Party Providers to ensure that they comply with the Legal Requirements, supervisory guidance of the Board of Governors, and GMAC Mortgage's policies and procedures;

(b) processes to prepare contingency and business continuity plans that ensure the continuing availability of critical third-party services and business continuity of the Mortgage Servicing Companies, consistent with supervisory guidance of the Board of Governors, both to address short-term and long-term service disruptions and to ensure an orderly transition to new service providers should that become necessary;

(c) measures to ensure that all original records transferred by the Mortgage Servicing Companies to Third-Party Providers (including the originals of promissory notes and mortgage documents) remain within the custody and control of the Third-Party Provider (unless filed with the appropriate court or the loan is otherwise transferred to another party), and are returned to the Mortgage Servicing Companies or designated custodians at the conclusion of the

Financial Injury and Remediation

When independent consultants find errors, misrepresentations, or other deficiencies, their next steps are to determine whether financial injury occurred and to recommend remediation when it does. Financial injury is defined as monetary harm directly caused by a servicer error.

Examples of financial injury identified in joint OCC-Federal Reserve guidance that was provided to the independent consultants include, but are not limited to, the following:

The borrower was not in default pursuant to the terms of the note and mortgage at the time the servicer initiated the foreclosure action.
2.
The servicer initiated foreclosure or conducted a foreclosure sale in advance of the time allowed for foreclosure under the terms of the note and mortgage or applicable state law.
3.
The borrower submitted payment to the servicer sufficient to cure the default pursuant to the terms of the note and mortgage, but the servicer returned the payment in contravention of the terms of the note or mortgage, state or federal law, or the servicer's stated policy covering payments when in default.
The servicer misapplied borrower payments, did not timely credit borrower payments (including failure to properly account for funds in suspense), or did not correctly calculate the amount actually due from the borrower, in contravention of the terms of the note and mortgage, state or federal law, investor requirements, or the servicer's stated policy covering application of payments.

If the independent consultants determine that financial injury occurred as a result of errors, misrepresentations, or other deficiencies, they will develop recommendations for remedying that injury. In addition to providing guidance in the form of 22 scenarios where financial injury might be present, we are also considering guidance that will clarify expectations as to the amount and type of compensation recommended for certain categories of harm. Any such baseline expectations would not, however, override the independent judgment of the independent consultants. Rather the objective would be to help ensure remediation recommendations are consistent across the twelve OCC-supervised servicers for similarly situated borrowers who suffered similar harms. The independent consultants will always have the flexibility to take account of the facts and circumstances of individual borrowers to arrive at compensation tailored to the borrower's individual situation where the independent consultants determines a different amount of compensation is appropriate.

The reviews are expected to take several months to complete. However, independent consultants and servicers have implemented a process to escalate the review of borrowers' cases where foreclosure sale is imminent. The independent consultants and servicers have identified loans that have been scheduled for near term foreclosure sale. Requests for review from in-scope borrowers in those cases are subject to special processes: prioritized review by the postpone the foreclosure action. To assure speed and consistency in the servicers review, we plan to provide direction on minimum criteria for this review.
